China trade fight with Congress looms

Knight-Ridder News Service

WASHINGTON — President Bush said Thursday he had decided to renew China's preferential trade status for another year, discounting congressional outrage that he was rewarding a regime that massacred its own citizens almost exactly one year ago.

"I don't think this is a reward to Beijing," Bush said. It is "not a special favor. It's not a concession," he insisted at a White House news conference where he announced his decision.

Saying the extension was "a difficult decision," Bush said that if he did not renew the 10-year-old most-favored-nation (MFN) trade benefits it would hurt the Chinese people, would mean higher prices for American consumers and would cost American jobs.

The congressional uproar was immediate. "I think he faces some severe problems here," said House Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash. "At the present time, I would say he does not have the votes to approve it."

To block the trade measure, Congress would have to pass a "resolution of disapproval." One was introduced promptly Thursday in both the House and the Senate.

But Bush would surely veto such a move, thus requiring two-thirds majorities in both the House and the Senate to override and undo the preferential trade status, which grants the lowest possible tariffs on imports to the United States.

The administration was calculating that the outcry of opposition generated by Bush's overtures to the repressive Chinese regime last year had died down enough to let his trade preferences policy prevail.

By contrast, Bush said the "political climate" in the United States would make it "extraordinarily difficult" to grant the same most-favored-nation status to the Soviets.

The president was referring to vehement congressional opposition to granting trade concessions to the Soviets while they continue their damaging economic blockade of Lithuania.

Besides, he said, "that is not a bridge we're having to cross" because the trade status is linked, by law, to a country's emigration policies and the Soviets continue to restrict emigration of Soviet Jews and others. The Soviets are due to consider emigration reform laws after the superpower summit in Washington May 31-June 3.

That special trade status is what the United States extends to nearly all its trading partners. But, in the case of China, it became controversial after the June 4 slaughter of pro-democracy demonstrators in Tiananmen Square and the continuing crackdown on supporters of democratic reforms there.

U.S. businesses have lobbied hard for renewal of the China most-favored-nation status, and Bush said Thursday that the Hong Kong economy would have become "an innocent victim of our dispute with Beijing" if China were to lose preferential status.

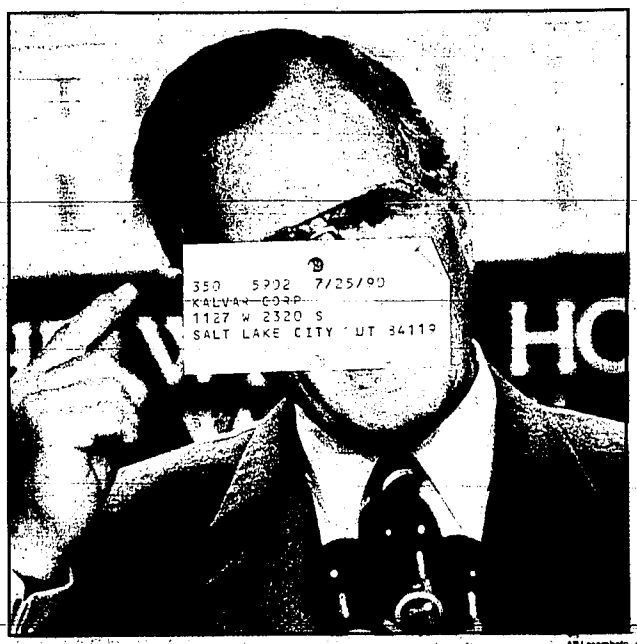

Bush also said that China had taken "modest steps" in the direction of human rights though, "they are, let's face it, far from adequate."

Chinese imports to the United States, which totaled $12 billion last year, would cost 40 percent more, said Bush. On other topics at the news conference Bush:

- Said he would work with Congress to protect depositors of failed and failing savings and loans and contended that the increasing billions of tax dollars required were not a bailout of imprudent thrift officials but protection for their customers.
- Declared he was "satisfied" with the budget summit talks and refused to be pinned down on whether he would support a tax hike.
- Called for restraint on both sides in the deadly Israeli-Arab clashes in the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza and urged peace talks.

Water control sought

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Legislation restoring the authority states long exercised over the water within their borders has been introduced in Congress.

Idaho Republican Larry Craig submitted the bill in the House on Thursday, reacting quickly to Monday's unanimous U.S. Supreme Court decision giving the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission authority over stream flows at the dams it licenses.

The assault on state primacy over water came in the midst of a rhetorical face-off between the Northwest and Los Angeles County over a proposal to siphon water from the Snake and Columbia rivers to drought-stricken Southern California.

"Water is one of our most precious commodities, and we're not about to let anything wrench it away from us — not a Supreme Court ruling and not a Los Angeles County supervisor," Craig said.

The legislation would amend the Federal Power Act, which Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, an Arizonan, used to support the water ruling she wrote for the high court.

Although the case involved a California stream flow directive at a federal dam, the other 49 states backed California's claim to primacy over the federal government on the issue.

"The Supreme Court has relied on a narrow interpretation of the Federal Power Act and an unrealistic precedent to reach a decision very threatening to state water rights," Craig said.

Reversing the high court ruling was extremely critical in Idaho, where relicensing proceedings will take place over the next 10 years on the Hells Canyon complex of dams.

Attorney General Jim Jones has warned that if the decision stands, the federal commission would be sure to seek increased stream flows through those dams for power, fish and possibly even irrigation in Washington state and that could severely curtail the availability of water in southern Idaho.

The Associated Press

BOISE — Barring any major upsets in November, pro-choice lawmakers should hold enough seats in the 1991 Idaho Senate to effectively bar passage of an anti-abortion bill similar to one approved by the Legislature this year.

Based on results from Tuesday's legislative primary races and the field they created for the general election, there should be at least 21 votes in the 42-member Senate next year against the kind of abortion restrictions in House Bill 625.

And if it comes down to a tie, Lt. Gov. C.L. "Butch" Otter has said he would oppose similar legislation.

"I'm not willing to concede that they are going to have the votes, but I am willing to concede that it's going to be close," Mike Havener of Twin Falls, director of the political action committee for Right to Life of Idaho Inc., said Thursday.

"The thing that could throw a monkey wrench into the whole thing is if Governor Andrus acts on his supposed pro-life convictions or if Roger Fairchild becomes governor."

But pro-choice advocates, anxious to avoid losing momentum they seemed to gain in the primary, remained concerned that anti-abortion lawmakers might still be able to win passage of legislation with stiff restrictions short of those in H.B. 625.

That bill, which would have created the nation's most restrictive state abortion law, was vetoed by Gov. Cecil Andrus after being passed 25-17 in the Senate. Right to Life has considered it a litmus test for candidates on the issue, and that anything less restrictive would amount to abortion on demand.

The pro-choice side was guaranteed three previously anti-abortion Senate seats as a result of Tuesday's voting. They include the seat in District 9 given up by the retirement of Republican Sen. Norris "Doc" Hyde of Emmett. GOP nominee Howard Koskella of Donnelly and Democrat Terry Haun of Emmett both are pro-choice.

In District 11A, a seat opened by anti-abortion GOP Sen. Skip Smyser's decision to run for Idaho's 1st Congressional District seat, the Republican primary victory of David Kerrick of Caldwell over anti-abortion Canyon County Commissioner Joyce Chase ensures another plus for the pro-choice side. Both Kerrick and Democrat Humberto Fuentes of Nampa, his opponent in November, are pro-choice.

Ban cigarette vending machines, Sullivan asks

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Bush administration on Thursday called on states to help stop children and teen-agers from smoking by banning cigarette vending machines and licensing tobacco retailers.

"We must put an end to the time when any child with a handful of change can commence the slow-motion suicide that is taking the lives of millions of Americans," Health and Human Services Secretary Louis Sullivan told senators.

SULLIVAN

Sullivan proposed the model federal legislation to guide state lawmakers in creating a licensing system similar to that used for alcoholic beverages and in outlawing cigarette vending machines.

"You can't buy beer from a vending machine," he said in testimony prepared for the Senate Finance Committee, "why should you be able to purchase cigarettes there?"

Also, signs would be required at all points of sale warning that cigarette sales to minors is illegal.

The plan would punish violators with fines and license suspensions.

Forty-four states and the District of Columbia have laws prohibiting the sale of cigarettes to minors. But "these laws are being blatantly ignored," the secretary said.

The states that do not have laws are: Kentucky, Louisiana, Missouri, Montana, New Mexico and Wyoming.

Sullivan released a report by the inspector general of the Department of Health and Human Services.

Controversy over speaker divides Idaho Rural Council

By MARK KIND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS – A convicted felon with alleged ties to the white supremacist Aryan Nations organization will present a seminar on farm debt remedies Saturday in Twin Falls.

Roderick "Rick" Elliott, 63 of Henderson, Colo., who in 1986 was convicted of stealing $213,500 from farmers in several states, will discuss "farm problems" at 10 a.m. in the Weston Plaza.

Controversy over Elliott's planned appearance has split an Idaho farm organization. Phil Lansing, executive director of the Idaho Rural Council, repudiated Elliott in an interview Thursday morning, only to discover later that Walt and Sherry Mueller of Twin Falls, two long-time members of the Idaho Rural Council, are assisting with Elliott's Saturday appearance.

Lansing, of Boise, insisted that the council does not endorse Elliott.

"Absolutely not. If he has duped a member, then we're very upset about this," Lansing said.

The Weston Plaza meeting room was reserved in Sherry Mueller's name. Walt Mueller, her husband, is president of the South Idaho Rural Council.

"Quite frankly, I don't know I'm sold on this guy," Walt Mueller said of Elliott. "I do know this, that there's a lot of foreclosures out there and remedies that just aren't working."

In a telephone interview Thursday, Elliott said his Saturday seminar will deal with "the law."

"I'm interested in the law, period," Elliott said, "what is known as federal law."

He said he will teach financially troubled farmers how to use federal statutes such as the Truth in Lending Act and civil rights statutes to protect their farms from foreclosure.

He will recruit new members for his National Agricultural Press Association. Dues will go in part to constructing an agricultural college in Henderson, near Denver, he said.

He said his strategies have saved family farms throughout the United States, but he declined to quote statistics.

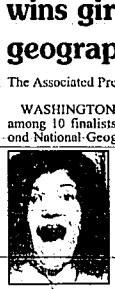

"No, I don't have specific figures," he said. "And if I did have numbers I wouldn't give them to you." He insisted that to do so would violate the successful farmers' right to privacy.

Navy reopens Iowa explosion probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy on Thursday reopened its investigation into the battleship Iowa explosion and ordered a halt to the firing of 16-inch guns aboard all battleships after the "unexplained ignition" of bags of powder during testing.

The new problems came during "follow-up testing which the Navy has been doing periodically as new theories were brought forward" since the Iowa blast and the Navy's review of it, the service said.

The Navy said last year that the Iowa explosion was "most probably" an intentional act by the ship's gunner's mate 2nd class Clayton Hartwig of Cleveland. Members of Congress and others have attacked that conclusion as unsupported by fact and have called the Navy investigation leading to it inadequate.

The Iowa's skipper at the time, Capt. Fred P. Moosally, blasted the Navy's first investigation ina speech at his May 4 retirement ceremony.

Moosally said it was conducted by "people more concerned with getting it over with," who used "facts and opinions based on unsubstantiated third-party information, unsubstantiated reports and supposition."

Forty-seven sailors, including Hartwig, were killed in the April 19, 1989, explosion during gunnery practice.

The congressional General Accounting Office is to release a report on the initial Navy investigation and conclusions Friday, and Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, said the report apparently spurred the Navy to reopen its investigation.

The service's statement said Navy Secretary H. Lawrence Garrett III ordered the investigation reopened as a result of the new explosion — in which no one was injured.

"As a safety precaution, the Navy today suspended all live firing of battleship 16-inch, 50-caliber guns, until further notice," the Navy said.

"The firing suspension is due to an unexplained ignition of 16-inch, 50-caliber powder bags during Navy testing at Naval Weapons Station in Dahlgren, Va., today," the statement said.

Cmdr. Mark Baker, a Navy spokesman, said he did not know the time of the incident at Dahlgren or how extensive it was.

Senate Armed Services Chairman Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., had requested the follow-up testing, Baker said.

Rep. Mary Rose Oakar, D-Ohio, said the unreleased GAO report, based on research at Sandia National Laboratory in New Mexico, will say "the elements they found, based on scientific fact, not on supposition, did not contain the explosives, devices that the Navy in fact indicated may have been used."

Mrs. Oakar did not say how she knew what was in the report.

Police arrest 'high priestess' of cult

CORAL SPRINGS, Fla. (AP) — A woman described by police as the high priestess of a devil-worship cult has been arrested on charges she agreed to help kill a person.

Linda Barszcz, 34, and her cult recruited juveniles, stole religious objects, and, in the end, offered to help an undercover investigator kill a fictitious person for $20,000, police said Wednesday.

Barszcz was jailed on charges of conspiracy to commit murder after her arrest late Tuesday. She denied the charges and said police concocted the high priestess label.

Bomb hurts environmental militants

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A bomb exploded in a car Thursday, injuring the two members of a militant environmental group riding in the vehicle, officials and witnesses said.

One of the two members of the group Earth First! said recently she had received death threats for helping organize a campaign to halt logging in Northern California's old-growth forests and other environmental activities.

Authorities declined to identify the victims, but Earth First! spokesman Daniel Barron said they were group members Judi Bari, 40, a passenger in the white Subaru station wagon registered in her name, and driver Darryl Cherney, 30, both of Ukiah.

Senate bars execution of retarded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Thursday to bar the execution of mentally retarded individuals convicted of capital crimes under federal law but leaders gave up hope of finishing work on an omnibus crime bill this week.

"For God's sake, if you acknowledge you should not put children to death, acknowledge that you should not put to death the mentally retarded," Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del., said as the Senate debated the crime bill.

Senators defeated 59-38 an amendment that would have limited the death penalty protection for the mentally retarded to those who don't know the difference between right and wrong.

Summary:

Wet and cool weather covered Idaho Thursday.

A low pressure center drifting eastward through Washington also spread moist air into Idaho. This system produced widespread precipitation across the state. Improving conditions are expected today and Saturday before the next storm brings an increasing chance of showers Sunday and Monday.

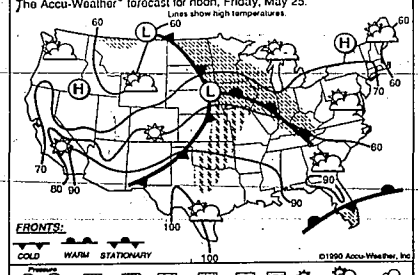

Cloudy skies covered the state Thursday afternoon and rain was falling at many locations. Some areas in northern Idaho received between one and two inches of rain between Wednesday and Thursday, while lesser amounts were reported over the southern portion.

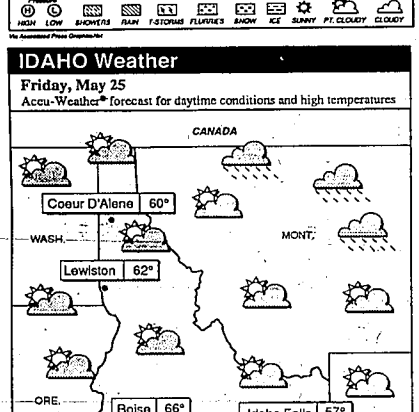

Strong gusty winds of 30 to 40 mph were blowing Thursday afternoon over southeast Idaho, while the remainder of the state was reporting winds less than 20 mph.

The temperatures were cooler Thursday with most afternoon readings in the 40s and 50s. At 3 p.m., the extremes ranged from 38 degrees at McCall to 55 degrees at Lewiston and Mountain Home.

The warmest temperature in the state Thursday was 68 degrees at Riggins. McCall reported the coldest at 32 degrees.

Elsewhere in the nation Thursday, the highest temperature was 105 degrees at Lajitas, Texas. The lowest was 29 at Lakeview, Ore.

Lansing said Elliott's tactics are useless for saving farms from bankruptcy and farmers should pursue negotiations with lenders or go through traditional bankruptcy procedures rather than waste time on Elliott's schemes.

"They do his stuff and lose," Lansing said.

Gary Clyman, investigator for the Colorado attorney general's office in Denver, said Elliott has previously convinced farmers to undertake do-it-yourself lawsuits against foreclosing lenders, but "to my knowledge none of them were successful," he said. "Then Elliott talked them into lending NAPA money."

Elliott used the association to bilk nine farmers and ranchers out of $213,500 in the early 1980s, Clyman said.

The farmers lent Elliott money for specific purposes, and Elliott signed promissory notes to pay them back, Clyman said. But Elliott did not use the money for its stated purpose and did not pay back the lenders, Clyman said.

Elliott, who is out on parole after serving three years of his eight-year sentence, insisted Thursday he now has affidavits from the farmers stating he did not steal from them. His parole conditions allow him to travel across state lines, according to Bill Fitzgerald at the Colorado Department of Corrections.

According to the FBI, Elliott has been arrested 14 times in six states since 1949. In Boise in 1963, Elliott was arrested and released on 18 months probation for passing insufficient funds checks.

Elliott admitted to many of the arrests and convictions, including the 1949 arrest in Lansing, Mich., for impersonating a federal officer. He confirmed that he used the alias Charles Walter Lambert to pass bad checks in Salt Lake City in 1961, and that he served two years in the Utah State Penitentiary for perjury in 1961.

But he insisted that many of his convictions were later "deferred."

Daniel Levitas, director of the Center for Democratic Renewal in Atlanta, Ga., said Elliott has been linked to leaders of white supremacist groups in the Midwest and Colorado. He said David Lane, a member of The Order and driver of the get-away car in the 1984 murder of Denver talk show host Alan Berg, once worked as a security guard at NAPA headquarters in Henderson.

Elliott said that Lane worked for NAPA in some capacity, but Elliott insists he fired him as soon as he learned of Lane's involvement with The Order, a splinter group of the Hayden Lake-based Aryan Nations.

He also said that "The Primrose and Cattlemen's Gazette," a publication of NAPA, once carried an advertisement for the Aryan Nations, but he insisted that he was out of town when the ad was sold and he was not responsible for it.

"I don't know, after I'd looked at that thing, just what was so bad about it," he said of the ad. "It was an opinion. The paper was always ready to run any sort of a rebuttal."

He insisted he has no affection for any racist or antisemitic groups.

"You're the people bringing it up, not Rick Elliott," he said. "I know a bunch of fine Jewish people."

Clyman, whom Elliott called "another Jewish boy" Thursday, refused to say whether Elliott's current activities are under investigation.

Levitas called Elliot a "garden-variety" antisemite.

"I've always had trouble determining whether Rick Elliott was an antisemite first and a con artist second, or a con artist who has antisemite leanings," he said. "It doesn't matter, he's both."

Levitas formerly worked for Prairiefire, an Iowa farm advocacy group. He said farmers facing loss of their land often turn to groups like NAPA in desperation.

This is the second appearance of Elliott in the Magic Valley this month. Patty Nance, owner of the North Side News in Jerome, said she was barred from a meeting in Jerome featuring Elliott May 5.

"They wouldn't let us in and they held it in the public library," Nance said. Elliott said the press will be welcome Saturday.

Ellis handily in Tuesday's Democratic primary. She faces anti-abortion Republican Spencer Stucki in November for the seat vacated by the retirement of anti-abortion Democrat Bert Marley of McCammon.

A pro-choice candidate also figures to maintain the House seat Mrs. Lloyd gave up to run for the Senate. Millie Flandro defeated John Pino in Tuesday's Democratic primary and may not be opposed in November. Pino was endorsed by Freedom Means Choice, but Flandro also is pro-choice.

"We hope to pick up additional seats with the support of what the polls indicate are 60 percent of Idahoans who do not want government involved in the abortion issue," said Sally Trott of Freedom Means Choice, which endorsed 87 primary candidates and formed a political action committee to funnel financial support to pro-choice contenders in the general election.

Latah County Prosecutor Craig Mosman, a Democrat who will face former Moscow mayor Gary Scott in November for the District 5 Senate seat being given up by Democrat Don Mackin of Moscow, did not receive a Freedom Means Choice endorsement and has said he considers himself anti-abortion.

But Mosman also has said he opposed H.B. 625 and that he would not like to see the 1973 U.S. Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion overturned. Scott, while qualifying his position in recent weeks, is anti-abortion.

That may allow the pro-choice side to maintain Mackin's opposition to abortion restrictions because even though both men are well known locally, the seat has been in Democratic hands for decades.

In the 20 legislative races in Tuesday's primary that included candidates on opposite sides of the abortion issue, 12 went to pro-choice candidates and eight to anti-abortion advocates. All nine incumbents involved in those races were victorious.

2 men die after motorcycle-car crash

Jeffrey Goff, 20, died Wednesday afternoon at Kootenai Medical Center, about three hours after the accident, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Donald Pendleton, 25, died Thursday at 12:10 p.m. at Sacred Heart Medical Center in Spokane, Wash., a spokeswoman said.

The motorcycle was traveling at 50 mph, more than double the speed limit, when it failed to stop at the intersection, police Sgt. Bill Bozlee said. It collided with a car driven by Dorothy Kaestner, 58, of Coeur d'Alene. Neither rider was wearing a helmet, Bozlee said.

Winchester admits signature is fake

BOISE (AP) — Ada County Republican Chairman Lyman "Gene" Winchester admits the signature of tax activist Don Chance was forged on a campaign letter he co-wrote to help defeat state Rep. Jerry Deckard of Eagle in Tuesday's primary.

Deckard, House Speaker Tom Boyd's right-hand, lost the primary by 1,100 votes to Meridian lawyer Bill Sali, and he accused Winchester, a longtime intra-party political foe, of dirty campaigning and vindictiveness.

Winchester said the forgery, by a staff member of the Idaho Conservative Political Action Committee, was a misunderstanding, maintaining he tried to pull all the letters before they were mailed.

The letter sent over the weekend attacked Deckard and GOP state Sen. Herb Carlson, also a moderate from Eagle, for voting to give "our bumbling state bureaucrats" and "supposedly over-worked teachers" another holiday, Martin Luther King Jr.- Idaho Human Rights Day.

Initiative sent to council knocked down

REXBURG (AP) — Some people in St. Anthony are trying to get a city ordinance giving residents the right to approve sales or lease of city property.

But officials say it's unconstitutional.

City officials have received petitions bearing about 300 signatures, proposing an initiative election on the question. But in a legal opinion, Deputy Attorney General Dan Chadwick said it will not work.

Chadwick said authority to lease property is administrative, not legislative, and not subject to the initiative and referendum process used on laws.

Blaze destroys bowling alley, salon

CRAIGMONT (AP) — An early morning blaze has destroyed a bowling alley and beauty shop, the second major fire in the small town of Craigmont in less than three years.

The fire, reported to the Lewis County Sheriff's Department early Wednesday, had already consumed the roof of the Prairie Lanes Bowl and had blown out windows in the building by the time the Craigmont volunteer fire department was alerted, Fire Chief Tom A. Mykelbust Jr. said.

Craigmont firefighters were assisted by volunteers from Winchester and Nezperce fire departments, as well as private citizens.

Meridian teachers accept pay increase

MERIDIAN (AP) — A contract next school year that includes an average pay increase of over 10 percent has been accepted by teachers in the Meridian School District.

"It's probably one of the biggest raises we've had in several years," said Sherry Meade, a fifth-grade teacher.

To ratify a contract, a majority of the union's 502 members must vote "yes." Teachers and other professional employees voted Tuesday and Wednesday.

By late Wednesday afternoon, 400 votes had been counted, 357 — or 89 percent — in favor of the tentative contract, and 43 — or 11 percent — opposed.

The next step is a vote next week by the School Board. If the board also votes yes, Meridian for the first time in about five years will have a contract in place before summer vacation.

Construction halted in wake of slides

COEUR d'ALENE (AP) — Construction cannot resume on a stretch of slide-plagued freeway embankment along Lake Coeur d'Alene until the area is deemed structurally sound, federal safety officials say.

Jack Heier, an inspector for the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, told the construction contractor Wednesday not to work on the embankment until a qualified soils engineer determines that the fill won't collapse again under the weight of workers and machines.

Failed GOP candidate blames gender bias

RYDALCH

GILBERT

BOISE (AP) — State Sen. Rachel Gilbert of Boise contends gender bias played a role in her defeat in the three-way Republican primary for governor.

"Idaho is just not ready for a woman governor," a disappointed Mrs. Gilbert said at a news conference Wednesday, adding that a dozen constituents told her she lost the race because of her gender.

Likewise, state Sen. Ann Rydalch of Idaho Falls, an unsuccessful contender for the GOP nomination in Idaho's 2nd Congressional District, said many voters are not ready to accept a woman in high political office.

Rydalch, a four-term lawmaker, lost to 27-year-old political newcomer Sean McDevitt of Pocatello in the race to challenge Democrat Rep. Richard Stallings in November. Mrs. Gilbert, a five-term lawmaker and chairman of a powerful Senate committee, lost to former state Senate majority leader Roger Fairchild of Fruitland in the Republican gubernatorial primary.

Mrs. Gilbert said she expected to win the majority of GOP votes for the governor's race in southeastern Idaho, but instead did poorly in those counties. She attributed that in partto conservative Mormon voters feeling more comfortable voting for a man.

Ted Johnson, a Boise spokesman for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, said Mormon voters cannot be stereotyped in that way. While they typically are conservative, Johnson said most vote on the issues that affect their lives and not on gender.

High court says Bower's damages claim void due to missed deadline

BOISE (AP) — An eastern Idaho spud farmer missed the deadline for filing a claim for damages caused by a faulty herbicide, the Idaho Supreme Court says.

The court on Thursday unanimously agreed with a 7th District Court ruling against legal action filed by Bingham County potato farmer Jerry Brower. But it overturned an award of nearly $9,000 in legal fees against Brower.

Brower claimed that in 1982, he applied a herbicide, "Gleam," on a field with the understanding the field could be used to grow potatoes again after two years. He was notified later that the chemical's residue could damage a potato crop up to 48 months later.

He received $30,000 from DuPont in settlement, but later sued for other damages. Brower contended that he couldn't determine the damages until crops actually were damaged.

But the Supreme Court said once Brower was notified by the chemical company of the problem in 1982, the time limit for filing legal action started, not in 1986 when actual damages occurred.

The Supreme Court also said the matter did not constitute a "commercial transaction," and legal fees were not justified.

In another decision released Thursday, the Supreme Court ruled in favor of Harmon and Elizabeth Johnson in a Canyon County real estate dispute. Treasure Valley Bank won clear title to a parcel of property in a district court legal action. But the Supreme Court said there was a valid lien outstanding, filed earlier by a partnership that owned the property.

Defendants in bomb case plead innocent

By The Associated Press

Three men accused of plotting to bomb a gay nightclub in Seattle to further the white supremacist movement have pleaded innocent to federal charges and face a June trial.

Procter James Baker, 57, entered his plea Wednesday before U.S. Magistrate Stephen Ayers at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. He is charged with conspiracy to bomb and making or possessing a pipe bomb.

In Boise Thursday, Robert John Winslow, 29, LaClede, and Steven E. Nelson, 34, Hayden Lake, both pleaded innocent. All three are scheduled to stand trial in Boise starting June 25 before U.S. District Judge Harold Ryan.

In a grand jury indictment returned last week in Boise, the three are accused of building pipe bombs and plotting to bomb a gay nightclub, listed as Neighbors Disco, Seattle. Federal authorities allege the three also planned to bomb other Western Washington businesses or buildings owned or frequented by minorities.

Winslow and Nelson were ordered held without bond in Seattle last week. In Boise, they said they wanted that decision reviewed. U.S. Magistrate Judge Mikel Williams continued the detention hearing until Tuesday at 2 p.m. but ordered both men continued held without bond.

Latino job applicants at severe disadvantage

Harry E. Cross

Buried within the General Accounting Office's report on the 1986 Immigration Reform and Control Act were the results of a "hiring audit" carried out in two cities — Chicago and San Diego — with results more ominous for the United States than those related to worker-eligibility procedures.

The audit shows striking differences in the experiences of Anglo and Latino job applicants that put young Latinos at a severe disadvantage. Anglo applicants received 52 percent more job offers than Latino ones, who were three times more likely to receive unfavorable treatment than the Anglos. The majority of Latino applicants who received unfavorable treatment were dropped out of the hiring process just after filling out an application. Thus, the greatest barrier the Latinos faced was just getting in the door for an interview.

Even when applicants reached the same stage in the hiring process, Latinos were sometimes treated differently. In one case, the Latino was given a job as a busboy, while the Anglo was "steered" to a better job tending bar. The implications of these findings, to the extent that they reflect conditions in the whole country, are disturbing — especially at a time when many people think that gross discrimination faded out with the Vietnam War.

The visionaries who in the 1950s and 1960s set us on a course to eliminate discrimination undoubtedly anticipated that we would enter the 21st century with reasonable prospects for equal opportunity in job and housing markets. This study's findings imply that we are far from that vision.

It cannot be statistically proven that the gross differences in the treatment of Latino applicants are totally the result of discrimination by employers; other factors may have contributed. Yet the Urban Institute researchers are hard-pressed to find any other plausible explanation for such differences.

Moreover, the study findings are supported by other disturbing trends in employment, poverty and demographic growth. Unemployment among Latinos today is 70 percent higher than for Anglos and nearly 50 percent higher than for all workers, according to February 1990 figures of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The proportion of Latinos living in poverty increased six times faster than any other ethnic group in the 1980s.

In the next 12 years nearly 5 million young Latinos will reach employmentage. The majority of them will not even have the qualifications of the applicants used in the Urban Institute-GAO study. These trends and prospects do not bode well for minorities, especially Latinos, seeking to support themselves and their families.

When the Senate finishes debating the effects of the 1986 immigration legislation, it might turn to the broader problem of employment discrimination in our society — a critical task if we are to ensure that all of our citizens have equal access to the American Dream.

Harry E. Cross, a senior research associate at the Urban Institute in Washington, was the project director of the Institute's hiring audit.

GOP pins House hopes on results of '90 census

By Ross K. Baker
Special to the Los Angeles Times

If there is any hope as forlorn as the one that looks toward the election of a Democratic president in 1992, it is the one that places faith in the census as the instrument that will deliver the House of Representatives to the Republicans. Predictions that the census results will trigger a shift of seats from the states of the Northeast and Midwest are certainly accurate. What is less defensible is the prediction that such a shift will work out to the advantage of Republican House candidates.

The legions of commentators who see reapportionment as a boon to the GOP — a group every bit as large and confident as the soothsayers who predicted a massive Republican gain after the 1980 census — view reapportionment in an overly simplistic and mechanistic light. This leads them to forecast a political upheaval of the magnitude of earthquake when the most likely outcome is mudslide.

It is important to recognize that the translation of census data to partisan gains and losses in the House is a complicated and not very neat process. Indeed, it is not a single process at all but two: reapportionment of seats among the states and redistricting within the states. Redistricting may occur even in a state that has neither lost nor gained House seats, but has experienced a population shift within the state. And since the Supreme Court has ruled that there can be virtually no variance in population among a state's congressional districts, state legislatures must juggle district lines.

Redistricting is one of the most purely political activities in American politics. And it has produced some wondrous acts of political cartography. The New Jersey General Assembly came up with a map in which one part of a district was accessible to another only at low tide. The gerrymanderer laureate, however, was the late Rep. Phil Burton of San Francisco, who engineered the present district map of California into baroque contortions that ensured an overwhelmingly Democratic congressional delegation.

Ross K. Baker

Creative machinations aside, those who tout a big GOP gain in the 1990 census buy into the notion that when a seat moves from the Northeast to the Sun Belt, it automatically falls on the Republican side of the ledger. Voters no longer mindlessly choose candidates on the basis of party affiliation. The remarkable success of the Watergate class of Democrats elected in 1974 from nominally Republican districts demonstrates that an incumbent can survive and even thrive in politically inauspicious termin. Even in open-seat elections in the Sun Belt in which there has been no incumbent, Democrats have fared remarkably well.

It is the second flaw in the deterministic view of reapportionment that may be the most significant. In House elections, Democrats have consistently fielded better contenders. It is in this critical area of political recruitment that Democratic congressional candidates may be beneficiaries of a legacy from a very unlikely source: Ronald Reagan.

The former president's eight years of anti-government contumely must have persuaded many winnable Republicans to stick to their desks at the bank and real-estate office.

In the unlikely event that term limitation were imposed, the GOP would face the challenge of having to come up with even larger numbers of candidates from a pool that seems habitually shallower than the one from which the Democrats draw theirs.

The fact that the vast majority of these beloved individuals who inhabit the despised institution of Congress are Democrats does not augur well for Republican hopes that the House will soon fall into their hands.

Surplus school funds save tax money

Frederick DiazGranados

Money – who has it or who doesn't have it, where it is or where it isn't, is it hidden and what it's being used for – is always an issue in the operation of schools. It's also the time of year when these concerns over finances and available funds seem to come to the forefront.

So, I suppose it's no surprise that the question of the proper fund balance for a school district to have in reserve has been raised several times recently. Nor is it a surprise that some of the figures quoted may be erroneous. What is disturbing, however, is that raising such an issue at this time may well have had an effect on several local elections.

Since Murtaugh was one of the districts recently asked to give an explanation of its fund balance, I feel compelled to reply. And while I cannot and do not attempt to speak for any other district, I believe that much of what I have to say can also be correctly applied to other districts.

In the case of the Murtaugh School District, our reported fund balance was correct. At the end of the 1988-89 fiscal year, we did indeed have a balance of $69,162 in the General Fund for the maintenance and operation of the schools.

But some historical perspective is needed to fully understand the situation. At the end of the 1987-88 fiscal year, there was only a $359 fund balance. At the end of the 1986-87 fiscal year, the fund balance showed a deficit of $73,793; and there was a $93,129 deficit at the end of the 1985-86 fiscal year.

In those years when there was a deficit, thousands of dollars were spent on interest alone – $12,141 in 1986-87, and $12,418 in 1987-88.

Why were loans needed to operate the schools? Contrary to some popular misconceptions, the expenses of running a school district continue year-around at about the same monthly rate. On the other hand, revenues to the district are not necessarily received when bills and salaries must be paid. State support payments are made only in August, September, November, February, May and July – with obviously long gaps in between.

Worse yet, taxes for a current fiscal year are not received until January or February in most cases (and then only the first installment) and July (after the fiscal year has ended). This uneven flow of revenues and lag in funds creates serious problems for any school district without a fund balance going into the new fiscal year.

Thus, short-term borrowing becomes necessary, along with interest payments.

Several years ago, the Murtaugh School Board and community decided that we did not want to pour our hard-earned money down the drain of interest payments – where it does no good for students, staff, programs or facilities improvement.

Instead, we embarked on a deliberate course to clear the deficit as quickly as possible and to build up a reasonable fund balance so we could avoid the necessity of borrowing and paying interest. Other districts have similar goals.

In Murtaugh, we were able to achieve that goal; and we now have a fund balance, as stated before, that is about 8 percent of our annual budget. We project a slightly larger fund balance at the end of this fiscal year, along with a larger annual budget.

Five percent has been mentioned as the ideal size for a fund balance. This, in my opinion, is probably a bare minimum. Ten percent would be more realistic. The basic question still remains: Should there be a large enough fund balance to avoid short-term borrowing and interest payments, as well as to allow for unforeseen emergencies (and those emergency situations do crop up all to frequently!)? I believe that answer must be a resounding "Yes"!

It has also been alleged that teachers and students suffer when a district maintains an "excessive" fund balance. In the case of Murtaugh, we are proud to have upgraded curriculum and facilities and improved staff salary at least as much as any other Magic Valley district while at the same time creating and maintaining the fund balance we have. In my opinion, this is a wise and prudent course, demonstrating that all interests can be adequately served.

But perhaps the most important issue is that, in all our dealings in Murtaugh, we have been open and honest with the community. Nothing has been hidden. Information has been readily available and published for the patrons. And the interests of the students have always held center stage in all of our considerations.

Can Bush stand up to NRA for once?

Sandy Grady

WASHINGTON — Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., waved a picture of a Street Sweeper, a black, pistol-gripped cannon with enough firepower to blast away a herd of dinosaurs.

He explained to Senate peers that the Street Sweeper, a.k.a. Striker 12, is a 12-gauge shotgun with a 12-shot magazine. South Africa's military designed it to riddle riot mobs. For $700, any would-be Rambo could buy the U.S.-made version.

"Can anybody imagine hunting a deer with one of these?" DeConcini said. "You'd blow him all over the woods."

Never mind deer. The National Rifle Association would love to make DeConcini an endangered species. His betrayal was shocking. Hadn't the NRA given DeConcini its "A" rating for protecting guns and named him "Legislator of the Month"?

Suddenly DeConcini was a traitor, the Benedict Arnold of the gun lobby.

DeConcini, impressed by horror stories from outgunned Arizona cops, was proposing a ban on nine paramilitary assault rifles, including four U.S. makes — the MAC 10 and 11, Colt AR-15 and CAR-15, INTRATEC TEC-9 and infamous Street Sweeper.

As usual, the NRA, which believes every American has a Second Amendment right to carry a bazooka for target practice, poured on full fire.

"He'd take guns away from decent people and do nothing to stop crime," NRA director Wayne LaPierre said, noting the 3 million semi-automatics that would still be on the streets.

All DeConcini seemed to have on his side were polls and cops. Sure, ever since the Stockton, Calif., massacre, Americans have become fed up with Rambo-style rifles. Sure, DeConcini surrounded himself with a sea of blue made up of the Fraternal Order of Police and other cops bitter about facing bad guys with fast-fire cannons.

But DeConcini had two aces in the hole. First, by hammering at assault guns as "druglords' weapon of choice," he played on the Senate's drug-war enthusiasm. Second, he suspected the NRA's clout had faded.

After all, the New Jersey legislature a week earlier had surprisingly beaten NRA forces. It passed the nation's toughest ban on assault rifles. Could the U.S. Senate be out-gutted by New Jersey?

"There are too many bullet holes in blue," DeConcini said with unusual passion. "Too many women weeping over coffins. Too many children without fathers."

As the vote began under the eyes of NRA lobbyists, DeConcini said almost prayerfully, "It's going to be darn close." Then came the stunner — DeConcini's assault-gun ban squeaked through, 52-48.

Why the upset? Maybe it was the cops' pleas. Or anti-gun polls. Or New Jersey's precedent. Or NRA's weakening muscle. Or maybe key senators were struck by an absurdity: How, on the same day, could they speed up the death penalty while ignoring deadly firepower on U.S. streets?

"We lost a battle, not the war," the NRA's LaPierre said.

If it does get through Congress, well, there's No. 1 NRA member George Bush waiting with a veto. If DeConcini could double-cross the gun lobby, if cops, polls and even New Jersey showed moxie, can Bush be less brave?

Sandy Grady writes for Knight-Ridder Newspapers.

Reader shocked beyond words

I'm sure I wasn't the only Times-News reader who was shocked beyond words and could hardly believe what my eyes saw on the front page of the May 13 paper – a large, colored 6 x 9½ picture and large letters that took up one-third of the front page of a murderer who was convicted of killing his wife!

I challenge you to write up a story about someone, or the Arbaugh family, telling what good they have done in their community and also have a picture of them the same size as the one of the convicted killer, Charboneau. That would sure be nice for the front page on Father's Day that is June 17.

Shame on you, Times-News, for ruining Mother's Day for the Arbaugh family and the many other mothers and families who have thought of the pain of the Arbaugh family all these years!

German student enjoyed stay

By the time you read this letter, I will have completed my 10-month stay in the United States and will be on my way back to my home in Germany.

I have really enjoyed my year in Wendell and have met so many great people. Also, I will miss Wendell High School; but I have so many wonderful memories that will live on. Certainly, my senior year at Wendell will always remain a part of them. I really appreciate the opportunity that I, as an exchange student, have had to learn about your school system and your community. A special thanks to the school board, Mr. Skinner, the principal and my teachers for all of their help and support throughout my school year in America.

There are so many other people I want to thank that I can't begin to single them out. I appreciated the chance to spend such a wonderful year in Wendell. The community made me feel welcome from the minute I arrived. Thank you. I hope I have left a good impression of Germany with you.

Finally, a very special thanks to my host family, the Stevensons. I hope we can all see each other again soon.

Thank you, Wendell.

Twin Falls drivers not so slow

After an absence of 10 years from the state of Idaho and having lived and worked in Twin Falls for many years, I have found the opposite to be true.

As an example, I found that on Eastland, in a 35-mile-an-hour zone, they are driving 40 miles per hour; and if you don't keep up the pace, they are driving in your gas tank.

I also note the rudeness of some drivers and the friendliness of the people in the stores.

Isn't it too bad that we can't maintain that friendliness when we get behind the wheel of a car? Are we not our brothers' keepers?

Alaska oil pipeline repairs scheduled

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. plans to nearly triple its work force this summer and spend an extra $230 million repairing pipeline corrosion and preventing oil-spill damage, company officials say.

"This is our busiest summer since construction of the pipeline," Alyeska spokeswoman Mamie Isaacs said Wednesday. The company runs the trans-Alaska pipeline for the seven major oil companies that own it.

Joint effort OK'ed for space plane

WASHINGTON (AP) — NASA and the Defense Department announced Thursday they have approved a unique plan by five aerospace companies to put aside rivalries and work on the National Aero-Space Plane as a team.

The aerospace plane, to be known as the X-30, will be a research vehicle capable of flying up to 25 times the speed of sound. It is to be built primarily to develop technologies that will be used on planes of the future.

A priority goal for the X-30 is to fly directly into orbit from a conventional runway and return, unlike the space shuttle which requires a booster rocket and an expendable fuel tank for launching. It is also to be capable of long range hypersonic travel within the atmosphere. The five companies are General Dynamics, McDonnell Douglas, Rockwell International, Rockwell's Rocketdyne Division and Pratt & Whitney. They are to be known as the National Contractor Team.

Bush vetoes Amtrak spending bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush on Thursday vetoed a bill authorizing $2 billion in spending by Amtrak, complaining that its expansion of federal regulation over railroad acquisitions "represents a step backward for the entire rail industry."

Bush took issue with a provision that would require the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve the acquisition of railroads by non-railroad companies.

Amtrak spokesman Clifford Black said the veto would have no effect on daily train operations because the railroad is working with money that Congress already had appropriated for 1989-1992.

Officials defend denial of Arafat visa

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Thursday it opposed a visa for PLO leader Yasser Arafat to attend a U.N. Security Council meeting in New York because it wanted to keep attention focused on the lack of Middle East peace talks.

Department spokeswoman Margaret D. Tutwiler said a controversy over granting a visa to the Palestine Liberation Organization chairman would have shifted the focus from the central issue of the absence of Mideast negotiations.

The U.N. session on the Middle East begins Friday.

Clean air legislation to have wide impact

WASHINGTON (AP) — By all accounts, pollution controls in new clean air legislation would have a wide impact, from the cost of a car to whether the corner dry cleaner stays open.

"Everybody is going to find out that clean air is not free," said Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., after he and other House members overwhelmingly approved a far-reaching clean air bill late Wednesday.

Dingell, along with Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., was at the center of lengthy negotiations that resolved more than a decade of disputes over tougher clean air provisions. The Senate also has crafted a compromise bill agreeable to most members and supported by the White House.

The Senate's approval of a bill April 3 and the House action this week marked the first time in 13 years that either body had agreed to even consider on the floor changes in federal air pollution laws.

The Senate and House bills must now be brought in line with each other before legislation goes to President Bush for his signature. The two bills share generally broad outlines for attaining cleaner air by cutting acid rain pollutants in half, requiring sharp reductions in smog-causing pollutants from automobiles and demanding that industry control its releases of toxic chemicals.

But in all of these areas the timetables differ slightly. At times the requirements favor one industry or segment of an industry over another or benefit one region of the country over another.

Clean air legislation has been such a thorny issue in Congress because so many diverse and at times competing constituencies are affected. While a section of the legislation eases the acid rain problem for the Northeast, for example, it also poses hardships to the Midwest where utilities and their customers will have to pay for pollution controls.

The White House has been determined to keep the costs of the legislation down and limit its impact on economic growth. Even so, Bush administration officials estimate the new bill will cost the economy $21.5 billion a year when all its requirements are implemented.

Industry says the cost will be much higher and that some sectors of the economy — such as steel — might be forced to close plants. More than 5,000 high-sulfur coal miners are expected to lose their jobs because tougher acid rain controls and will force some utilities to shift to a cleaner burning fuel.

The White House is expected to push for deletion of a job-loss assistance provision that was included in the House version, but is not in the Senate bill. The administration calls the $250 million program over five years too expensive.

Oil industry lobbyists have vowed through their friends in Congress to continue a push to soften requirements for the sale of a cleaner gasoline blend — with an oxygen content the oil companies say will require a grain-based ethanol additive — in nine badly polluted cities.

And the automakers don't plan to give up trying to get out of the bills a proposal — though significantly scaled back — that requires them to produce and sell up to 300,000 alternative fuel vehicles by the end of the decade.

Lobbying has been intense, largely because of the impact the legislation will have on everyone from the operators of chemical plants to the purchaser of a new car.

Tougher standards for cars will require new equipment.

Seized ship's owner to pay $325,000

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The owner of a seized Soviet fishing vessel has agreed to pay $325,000 to settle a forfeiture case alleging illegal fishing, the U.S. attorney's office said.

The incident April 26 was at least the second time since 1989 that a Soviet fishing vessel was seized and fined for such fishing.

Buy a Good Cents Home and Save, Save, Save.

Save Energy. Features like extra insulation, high efficiency heating and cooling equipment, double- or triple-paned windows and insulated ductwork make a Good Cents Home so energy efficient your family can reduce its heating energy needs by up to 50 percent over conventional construction.

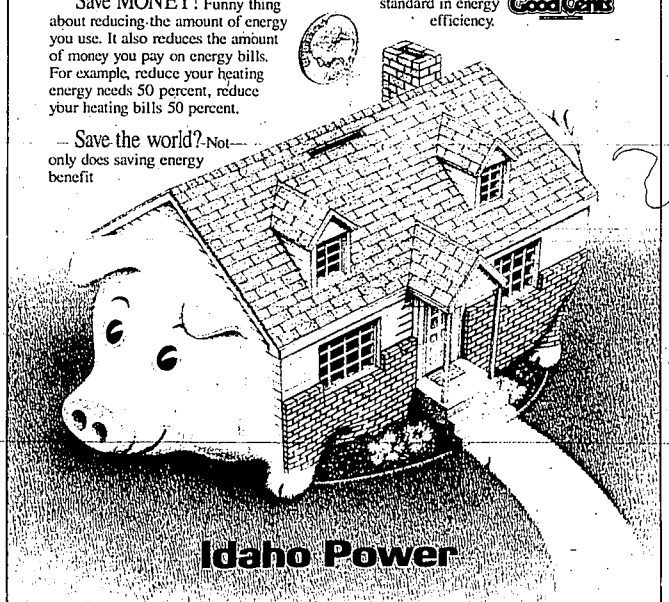

Save MONEY! Funny thing about reducing the amount of energy you use. It also reduces the amount of money you pay on energy bills. For example, reduce your heating energy needs 50 percent, reduce your heating bills 50 percent.

Save the world? Not only does saving energy benefit your checkbook, it can benefit the environment, too. True, building a Good Cents Home may not plug the hole in the ozone layer all by itself, but every little bit helps.

So when you buy your next home, get the one you can bank on.

Nation's economic growth still sluggish

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy grew at a sluggish annual rate of 1.3 percent in the first quarter, the government said Thursday.

The growth was slower than first thought because of what analysts consider a healthy reduction in business inventories.

But while the Commerce Department report lowered the January-March growth rate, it pumped up the inflation rate from 6.5 percent to 6.7 percent — the highest level since it reached 7.7 percent in the fourth quarter of 1981.

While the inventory reduction was considered a possible sign of future growth, the first-quarter gross national product was weaker than the original 2.1 percent estimate last month and only slightly improved from the fourth quarter's 1.1 percent rate.

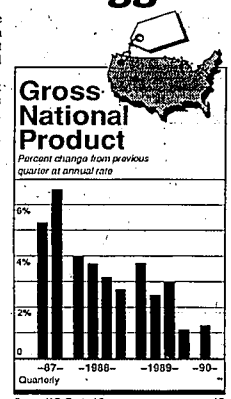

The growth rates in both quarters were the weakest since the economy grew at a 0.8 percent rate in the July-September period of 1986. The GNP measures the nation's total output of goods and services.

Robert G. Dederick, chief economist with the Northern Trust Co. in Chicago, acknowledged it was the second weak number in succession but said it "offers the possibility of a quickening" in the economy as businesses begin restocking their shelves and backlots.

Allen Sinai, chief economist with the Boston Co., described the inventory reduction as "a healthy correction" that, combined with strong consumer demand, could be "setting the economy up for sustained growth provided that sales stay up."

"If sales and demand stay up, the economy will continue to expand ... closer to 2 percent" this quarter, he said.

Sinai said there was no sign of any imminent recession in the report. A recession usually is defined as two consecutive declines in the GNP.

Dederick said the sluggishness in the economy was due to weakness in the manufacturing sector, which "probably is going to pick up some speed."

"Construction could well fade, because that was bolstered in the first quarter by the good weather," he said.

"The real key will be whether we can get some push from the export side because it doesn't look as if the consumer has any independent strength, doesn't look as if business spending is going up very much."

The Bush administration initially forecast 2.4 percent growth this year and the new report spells more problems for administration and congressional budget negotiators as they resumed talks Thursday on cutting the deficit.

The first-quarter GNP revision came after additional information was gathered.

Ex-hostage to see mother

BOSTON (AP) — Freed Beirut hostage Frank Reed will see his 91-year-old mother for the first time since his release when he returns home Sunday to a hero's welcome, his daughter said Thursday.

"I think what's kept her going for the past 3½ years is (that) this day will come," said Marilyn Langston. "Once she sees him and touches him, that will be very, very wonderful for her."

Ms. Langston, 33, said her grandmother, Leota Sprague, did not travel to Frankfurt, West Germany to greet Reed, as younger family members did.

Reed grew up in Malden, a Boston suburb about five miles north of downtown. Malden Mayor James Conway said city residents were excited about the return of their native son.

Concession companies reap windfall at parks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Concessionaires holding long-term monopolies at national parks are reaping tens of millions of dollars in excess profits because of poorly drafted government contracts, Interior Department investigators told Congress on Thursday.

A report by James Richards, the department's inspector general, concluded that the contracts allowed concessionaires to earn a much greater return on investment than they could expect elsewhere.

As a result, he said, the federal government has earned an estimated $100 million less in fees since 1984 than it should have received, and $90 million more will be lost over the next four years.

Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan promised to change the way contracts are negotiated, seek higher franchise fees and shorten the duration of contracts. Lujan ordered the internal investigation last December.

While concessions at smaller parks frequently are run by "mom and pop" operations, concessionaires at large parks often are subsidiaries of such major corporations as the MCA Inc. entertainment giant, whose Park & Curry Co. operates at Yosemite National Park.

Concession contracts usually are written by inexperienced local park officials.

"Park service employees who are trained as park rangers are outmatched when dealing with sophisticated business executives and their accountants," Richards told a House Interior subcommittee on national parks and public lands. "It is simply not a level playing field."

Richards said concessionaires reported $500 million in gross receipts from national park operations in 1988, while the government collected only $12.5 million in franchise fees.

Fourteen companies accounted for more than half of the receipts and about $6.2 million in fees, he said.

"Our national parks were established for people, not for profiteers," said Rep. Bruce Vento, D-Minn., the subcommittee chairman.

Students force plastic out of schools

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Kids are saying no to plastic across the Twin Cities after a cafeteria sit-in by grade schoolers prompted a school board decision to switch from disposable lunch trays and cups in favor of washable dishes.

Mounds View school officials say they will spend at least $145,000 to equip eight grade schools with dishwashers and related equipment — three schools next year and five the year after that.

Students at Bel Air started the movement after hearing their teacher talk about the need to recycle and attending Earth Day festivities.

That made the students decide to stage a cafeteria sit-in.

Gorbachev threatens Lithuania

MOSCOW (AP) — President Mikhail S. Gorbachev on Thursday threatened to impose presidential rule in Lithuania unless the Baltic republic freezes its declaration of independence, a Lithuanian legislator said.

In a more positive tone, Gorbachev offered to lift economic sanctions if Lithuania agrees to suspend the declaration, and said Lithuania could win independence in two years if it follows Kremlin procedure, Vaidotas Antanaitis said.

Protesters riot against Gabon leaders

LIBREVILLE, Gabon (AP) — Anti-government protesters rioted in Gabon's two biggest cities Thursday, burning public buildings and property belonging to President Omar Bongo and aides, witnesses said. France sent troops to protect its citizens.

The rioters, angered at the death of an opposition leader Wednesday, blocked the airport runway in Port Gentil and took 10 oil executives hostage. All were released Thursday.

Jewish grave desecrator convicted

JERUSALEM (AP) — A court in the northern city of Haifa on Thursday convicted a messianic Jew of desecrating more than 300 Jewish graves, police said.

David Goldner, 41, admitted he spray-painted the graves with anti-Jewish slogans in hopes Arabs would be suspected and Jews would unite against Arab hostility, Haifa police spokeswoman Devorah Rotman said.

ANC says S. Africa can't control whites

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — African National Congress guerrillas Thursday accused the South African government of failing to control the activities of armed right-wing whites.

Despite political reforms, President F.W. de Klerk's government has shown "benign tolerance" toward armed white vigilantes, said Chris Hani, chief of staff in the ANC guerrilla wing, Spear of the Nation.

Hani cited the activities of white extremists among reasons why the ANC has not renounced violence.

Radio attack on China called off

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Organizers of the Goddess of Democracy radio ship said Thursday they have scrapped plans to beam pro-democracy messages to China because of setbacks in obtaining broadcasting equipment.

"It was a difficult decision," said Xu Tianfang, deputy secretary of A Boat for China, one of the main organizers. "We are forced to abandon the broadcasting project."

He said the ship would be sold at auction and tapes of the planned pro-democracy broadcasts would be distributed among radio stations that might be able to help transmit the messages to China.

Afghan troops open attack on rebels

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — A barrage of rockets hit the Afghan capital Thursday, killing three people, and government troops launched offensives in four provinces and killed 26 Moslem guerrillas, state-run radio said.

Japan apologizes for harsh Korean rule

South Korean Presidents Roh Tac-woo shakes hands with Japanese Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu during their meeting

TOKYO (AP) — In Japan's clearest effort to grapple with its militaristic past, Emperor Akihito and Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu on Thursday acknowledged the suffering that Japanese colonial rule inflicted on Koreans.

The apology come 45 years after a defeated Japan relinquished its control of the Korean peninsula. The issue of acknowledging Japan's past exposed bitter memories in both countries, prompting demonstrations and arson attacks.

In a palace banquet for visiting South Korean President Roh Tae-woo, Akihito went beyond a previous imperial statement and said he felt the "deepest regret" for the pain Japan's colonial rule caused the Korean people. Earlier Thursday, Kaifu expressed "sincere remorse and honest apologies" for Japanese actions that "inflicted unbearable suffering and sorrow on the people of the Korean peninsula."

Kaifu's apology was the most clear-cut ever by a Japanese prime minister, Foreign Ministry spokesman Taizo Watanabe said. A similar statement of remorse also was expected to be made by Parliament, where Roh was to give an address Friday.

For Japan, which normalized relations with South Korea in 1965, the statements marked a breakthrough in acknowledging the suffering it inflicted during its 1910-1945 rule of Korea. The lack of an explicit apology had been a major obstacle to improving the two neighbors' relations.

Roh, replying to Akihito, said the "dark period" in Japanese-Korean relations had been short and it was time to put "the unfortunate past truly behind us."

In South Korea, thousands of radical students burned Japanese flags and fought with police Thursday. They shouted slogans that Roh's trip to Japan — only the second by a South Korean head of state — was a "sellout to national pride."

NATO's planes remain on alert under new plan

MONS, Belgium (AP) — Under a new plan to relax response times in war, NATO's combat planes will remain at full alert but some front-line troops will have twice as long to react to an attack, the NATO military commander said Thursday.

U.S. Gen. John R. Galvin, the supreme allied commander in Europe, said the response times of air and ground forces in Western Europe could be eased even more with additional cuts in Red Army troops in Eastern Europe.

"As more changes occur, we will probably lengthen the time for saddling up and moving out," Galvin said during an interview at his official residence in Mons, about 40 miles southwest of Brussels.

Defense Secretary Dick Cheney and other defense ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization announced Wednesday the decision to "lower the readiness and availability of a number of our standing forces."

They attributed the action to the diminished military threat from the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact and the increased warning time of a full-scale Soviet attack.

Heyburn man waives first murder hearing

RUPERT – Bill Eugene Brady, the Heyburn man charged with the murder of Nancy Lou Kidd, waived his right to a preliminary hearing in Rupert yesterday.

Brady, 21, is being held without bail on charges of first-degree murder and second-degree burglary in connection with the stabbing death of Nancy Lou Kidd, 40. Kidd was found stabbed in her home May 9.

Magistrate Judge Donald Workman asked Brady if he fully understood his decision to waive the hearing and if he agreed with his attorneys, Public Defender Gara P. Newman of Minidoka County and Douglas Whipple of Cassia County. Brady said he did.

The trial date was not set.

Heyburn seeks funding for railroad crossing arms

HEYBURN – Town officials will check with the Idaho Transportation Department to see if government funds are available to put in four railroad crossing arms.

The city was told it will need a $2,000 deposit for a preliminary study at each location. The council Wednesday asked for a clarification of the funding proposal before they vote on whether to proceed. In other matters, four copies of the sewer system specifications have been picked up at the city office, City Superintendent Al Hodge said. Proposals are due June 6.

TWIN FALLS – Weather permitting, the city swimming pool will open its doors Saturday for the summer season.

Since school will still be in session, however, the first week's schedule will be a little different from the normal schedule.The public will be allowed to swim from 1-6 p.m. Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Memorial Day. It will be open the following Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 3:30-6 p.m., closed Wednesday for lifeguard training, and open again from 1-6 p.m. June 2 and 3.

Beginning June 4, the city pool will dive into its regular summer schedule:

- Lap swimming, 7-8:30 a.m., noon-1 p.m. and 5-6:30 p.m. Monday-Friday. A Saturday session might be set, depending on interest.
- Swim lessons, 8:45 a.m.-noon Monday-Friday.
- Open swimming, 1-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. Monday-Saturday, and 1-6 p.m. Sunday.
- Private parties can rent the pool from 6-9 p.m. Sundays for $150.

Daily admission rates are: 50 cents, age 5 and younger; $1, ages 6-12; $1.50, ages 13-17, and $2 for adults. Lap swimmers pay only $1 per session. Season passes for lap swimming and recreational swimming are also available. And coupon books good for 20 swims at a discounted rate can be purchased for open swimming.

Internment camp memorial to be dedicated Saturday

HUNT – A dedication of the memorial at the Hunt relocation camp will be at 11 a.m. Saturday.

The site, where 10,000 Japanese-Americans were interned during World War II, is on the National Register of Historic Places and the Minidoka Relocation Center Memorial was begun last year as an Idaho Centennial Project.

The two-hour ceremony will feature speeches from numerous dignitaries and the dedication of a stone monument that holds three plaques about the relocation camp. The project is joint effort with the Japanese American Citizens League and the Bureau of Reclamation. The monument is several miles northeast of Twin Falls on Highway 25 in Jerome County. Directions to the site will be posted.

Rupert park to be closed this weekend, other times

RUPERT – Walcott Park will be closed today through Monday for construction.

Facility manager George Pethtel said work at the park, 12 miles east of town, includes open trenches which would be a danger to public safety.Parents have allowed their children to play in the trenches, but officials decided to close it completely the weekend due to the high influx of visitors over Memorial Day vacation, Pethtel said.

Other unannounced closures can be anticipated periodically until completion of the construction work.The first phase of a two-year project will be completed and dedicated on June 30. Improvements include bathrooms, drinking water and a boat ramp.

The second phase will be the addition of a 25-unit campground, interpretive trails and a visitor's center, and is scheduled for completion in 1992.

Tolzin new superintendent of Coeur d'Alene schools

By KIRK MITCHELL
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS – The Coeur d'Alene School Board has hired Twin Falls Acting Superintendent Keith Tolzin as Coeur d'Alene's new superintendent of schools.

Tolzin said the School Board contacted him Thursday morning about its decision. He will start July 1 in Coeur d'Alene at a salary of $62,000 a year and a two-year contract, he said.

"I'm excited about it," Tolzin said.

For the 1988–89 school year, the Coeur d'Alene schools had 6,879 students enrolled in one high school, two middle schools and eight elementary schools. For the same year, Twin Falls had 7,097 students in one high school, two junior high schools and six elementary schools.

Tolzin will complete his tenure as acting superintendent in Twin Falls on June 29, he said.

"It's been a pleasure for me to be here," he said. "I'm thankful for the level of support that I have gotten from the community."

The Coeur d'Alene School Board narrowed its list of six semifinalists to three finalists who were interviewed by a citizen's advisory committee and a staff advisory committee.

Before the board hired Tolzin, a team appointed by the Coeur d'Alene School Board came to Twin Falls to interview school and business leaders about Tolzin's performance here.

TOLZIN

"Overall, the interview with him went well and the visit went well," board Chairwoman Irma Anderl said. "It just seemed like the whole board felt a strong pull towards Dr. Tolzin."

She said several educators from around the state gave Tolzin high marks for his administrative skills.

Tolzin replaces Merlin Ludwig, who is leaving Coeur d'Alene after completing two years of a three-year contract. After disagreement over leadership style, Ludwig and the board agreed to part ways, Anderl said.

The Coeur d'Alene district has been facing difficult times after a succession of failed bond levies, she said. The Coeur d'Alene schools have been unable to make necessary maintenance improvements on buildings, she said.

Calvin Lamborn, chairman of the Twin Falls School Board, said Tolzin's departure is a great loss for Twin Falls.

"They're getting a capable person," he said.

Lamborn was the only Twin Falls School Board member who favored hiring Tolzin as the permanent superintendent here. The trustees instead chose Terrell Donicht, the director of Valley nursing homes fail to meet some standards

WASHINGTON — Nursing homes in the Twin Falls area received generally high marks in an evaluation of facilities released Wednesday by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

However, one facility, the West Magic Care Center on 640 Filer Ave West, failed to meet nearly one-third of the criteria listed in the agency's survey.

Filling 276 pages for Idaho alone, the report is based on one-time inspections by teams of state surveyors in 1988 or 1989. The survey listed the performance of homes in 32 performance criteria selected from more than 500 studied

According to a foreword in the report, the material is best used as a starting place for consumers who are deciding on a nursing home. "It is neither the final, definitive word on nursing home performance nor a comprehensive guide to the selection of a nursing home," cautioned Gail R. Wilensky, Ph.D., administrator of the Health Care Financing Administration.

In addition to the West Magic Care Center, the study examined the Twin Falls Care Center, St. Benedict's Family Medical Center Inc., and Mountain View Care Center.

The survey only included homes that take part in the Medicare or Medicaid programs.

The West Magic Care Center failed to meet 10 of the 32 performance standards. Among the deficiencies cited was the use of drugs or physical restraints to control behavior without the authorization of a physician.

Administrators at the center were unavailable for comment Thursday.

The Mountain View Care Center in Kimberly failed to meet federal standards in five of the 32 selected criteria. The facility's deficiencies included insufficient evaluation of resident's with urinary catheters.

The Twin Falls Care Center, on 874 Eastland, failed to meet only the requirement for "prompt" feeding assistance to residents.

St. Benedict's Family Medical Center in Jerome was also cited for only one deficiency — insufficient bladder and bowel control rehabilitative services.

Throughout Idaho, nearly one-half of nursing homes did not meet federal standards for preventing skin breakdown.

More than half the facilities failed to offer adequate rehabilitative training for bowel and bladder control problems.

Government offices closed, businesses not for holiday

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS – For those Magic Valley residents who aren't off in the wilderness this weekend backpacking, rafting or camping, they'll find government offices closed but a mishmash of open and closed businesses.

And in town as well as the mountains, expect increased chance of showers as the three-day weekend progresses, according to Bill Galkin, with the National Weather Service in Kimberly.

"It doesn't look like it's going to be too bad a weekend to start, but as we get close to Memorial Day, the weather starts to deteriorate," Galkin said.

Temperatures will be 65 to 75 degrees during the day and 30 to 40 degrees at night, Galkin said. After partly cloudy skies today, Saturday should be mostly sunny, he said.

A storm system will move into the area Sunday afternoon and Monday, but the moisture – rain, not snow – may be confined to nearby mountains, he said.

Urbanites who have business to conduct and errands to run should do so before Monday, when city, county, state and federal offices will be closed.

The post office will pick up mail from collection boxes and deliver express and special delivery mail, but there won't be window service or regular mail delivery.

Banks and schools will be closed Monday.

Residential garbage collection will not be picked up Monday, pushing back collection by one day next week.

Business garbage will be picked on schedule, however.

In Twin Falls, city emergency water and sewer services can be handled Monday by calling the police non-emergency line, 736-2200.

City parks and the Twin Falls Municipal Pool will be open all weekend. The pool's hours are 1-6 p.m. Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Merchants in the Magic Valley Mall will be open from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Monday but some downtown stores will be closed.

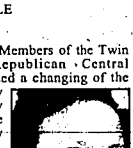

Road travelers filling up in Twin Falls will find per-gallon gas prices higher than the state average but lower than the national average.

Munroe elected to succeed Stubbs as county GOP head

By MICHELLE COLE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS – Members of the Twin Falls County Republican Central Committee conducted a changing of the guard Wednesday night when they elected Dave Munroe as their new committee chairman.

MUNROE

Munroe, a Buhl auto dealer who is a 22-year GOP state committeeman, won election over Donna Scott of Twin Falls, a former state legislator who was also interested in leading the county committee.

Republicans from Twin Falls and other Magic Valley counties – which comprise the Region V GOP Central Committee – will gather again in Burley next Wednesday to elect officers for the regional group. That meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Cassia County Courthouse.

'Munroe has been an active member of the Republican party since 1965.

"I just felt it was time to run for committee chairman," he said Thursday.

Munroe is replacing Twin Falls attorney Mark Stubbs, who will try to trade the job of county committee chairman for a seat in the Idaho House of Representatives. Stubbs is running for the House in District 25A; he'll face Democrat Gene Sullivan of Fairfield in the fall.

Among other duties, Munroe said the county committee chairman is responsible for presiding over local meetings, appointing members to precinct positions and representing the local group at state conventions and meetings.

It's up to the executive committee to guide the local party philosophy, he said.

Joining Munroe on the Twin Falls County Republican executive committee are Paul Smith, vice chairman; Orriette Sinclair, secretary; Ken Coiner, treasurer; Darrel McRoberts, state committeeman; Kathy Noh, state committeewoman; Kathy Gardner, youth director; Jeanne Schlagenhauf, chairwoman of legislative District 23, and Charlie Watt, District 23 vice chairman.

The Twin Falls County GOP board of directors includes Scott, Donna Brizee, state Rep. Ron Black, Bill Chancey and M.F. Smith.

Other Twin Falls County party representatives include Linda Waag and Sue Burwell, programs coordinators; Janet Haley, finance coordinator; David Mead, campaign coordinator; Jack Hayes, publicity and newsletter, and Louise Koontz, District 23 secretary.

"A lot of them volunteered – which was really neat," Munroe said. "The party doesn't run on one person, it takes

3 plead guilty to grand theft in cattle stealing

By H.R. WEIXEL
Times-News correspondent

JEROME – Three people charged with stealing cattle have pleaded guilty to grand theft, ending one recent case of cattle rustling in the county.

The Jerome County Sheriff's Department, meanwhile, is investigating the reported theft of cattle from a dairy in the county and a third case was solved when it was discovered the missing cattle had apparently wandered away and were later found.

Posey said he had employed and trained a Twin Falls man in January this year to take care of the ranch for when he would be in California in March for a medical check-up.

But the man got pneumonia, coughing so hard he "popped a rib," so Posey said he hired another man to help with the milking.

Posey said three calves were loaded into the car of another man, Gary Kudrna, and sold at a sale. Then Kudrna and two other people began taking and selling calves on a regular basis, Posey said.

In the meantime, the cattle at the Posey ranch were not being cared for, since the two hired for the job had left.

Jerome County Sheriff's Deputy Gerald Brant visited the ranch after the sheriff's department received a complaint, and he said he found Kudrna there. Brant said he asked Kudrna to take care of the cattle until Posey returned, after Kudrna told him he had worked there.

Posey said the smell of dead animals was "all over the place" when he returned April 8. "My wife's rabbits were dead, sheep gone, cattle bawling and unmilked and vandalism all over the place," he said.

Posey said he had to sell eight good milk cows for beef because they were ruined due to not being milked.

He is also stuck with his attorney fees, he said.

Gary Kudrna, 20, Irona Broner/Kudrna, 27, and David Hendricks, 25, all of Jerome, pleaded guilty to grand theft charges last week, Jerome County Prosecutor John Horgan said.

In return, Horgan said he will recommend probation if the three have not had prior felony charges.

The three are accused of stealing and selling 10 calves from the Posey farm.

32 indicators used to estimate nursing home performance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are the 32 performance indicators in the Health Care Financing Administration's report on nursing homes and the percentage of homes nationwide that did not meet the requirements during their most recent inspection.

The first number is the percentage for skilled-nursing facilities and the second is for intermediate-care facilities.

1. Each facility ensures that its written procedures regarding the rights and responsibilities of residents are followed: 2.2, 2.1.

2. The facility uses a system that assures full and complete accounting of residents' personal funds. An accounting report is made to each resident in a skilled nursing facility every three months: 4.3, 3.3.

3. Each resident is free from mental and physical abuse: 1.4, 1.3.

4. Drugs to control behavior and physical restraints are only used when authorized by a physician in writing for a specified period of time or in emergencies: 8.9, 10.7.

5. Each resident is given privacy during treatment and care of personal needs: 14.7, 13.5.

6. Each resident is allowed to communicate, associate and meet privately with individuals of his or her choice unless this infringes upon the rights of another resident: 0.4, 0.4.

7. Each resident is allowed to retain and use his or her personal possessions and clothing as space permits: 2.9, 1.3.

8. Except in a medical emergency, a resident is not transferred or discharged, nor is treatment changed radically, without consultation with the resident or, if the resident is incompetent, without prior notification of next or kin or sponsor: 0.5, 0.4.

9. The facility ensures the health care of each resident is under the continuing supervision of a physician: 1.5, 0.5.

10. Emergency services from a physician are available and provided to each resident who requires emergency care: 0.7, 0.3.

11. Nursing services are provided at all times to meet the needs of residents: 6.1, 6.

12. Each resident receives daily personal hygiene as needed to assure cleanliness, good skin care, good grooming and oral hygiene taking into account individual preferences. Residents are encouraged to take care of their own self care needs: 25.5, 18.2.

13. Each resident receives care necessary to prevent skin breakdown: 18.9, 12.8.

14. Each resident with a bed sore receives care necessary to promote healing, including proper dressing: 11.3, 7.2.

15. Residents with bowel and bladder control problems are provided with care necessary to encourage self control, including frequent toileting and opportunities for rehabilitative training: 17.1, 18.1.

16. Each resident with a urinary catheter receives proper routine care, including periodic evalution: 19.8, 15.5.

17. Each resident receives proper care for injections, fluids supplied through tubes, colostomyileostomy, respiratory and tracheotomy care, suctioning and tube feeding: 14.9, 6.7.

18. Each resident receives rehabilitative nursing care to promote maximum physical functioning to prevent loss of ability to walk or move freely, deformities and parnlysis: 19.7, 12.9.

19. Each resident needing help eating or drinking is provided prompt assistance. Specific self-help devices are available when necessary: 13.6, 6.5.

20. Drugs are administered according to the written orders of the attending physician: 24.2, 22.6.

21. Menus are planned and followed to meet the nutritional needs of each resident in accordance with physicians' orders, and to the extent medically possible, based on recommended dietary allowances: 13.2, 18.9.

22. Therapy is provided according to orders of the attending physician in accordance with accepted professional practices by qualified therapists or qualified assistants: 5.5, 5.3.

23. Services are provided to meet the residents' social and emotional needs by the facility or by referral to an appropriate social agency: 8.9, 5.7.

24. An ongoing program of meaningful activities is provided, based on identified needs and interests of each resident. It is designed to promote opportunities for engaging in normal pursuits, including religious activities of the resident's choice, if any: 15.1, 11.2.

25. Appropriate staff develop and implement a written health care plan for each resident according to the instructions of the attending physician: 12.8, 6.1.

26. Toilet and bath facilities are clean, sanitary and free of odors: 11.2, 15.8.

27. All common resident areas are clean, sanitary and free of odors: 9.5, 20.6.

28. All essential mechanical and electrical equipment is maintained in safe operating condition: 13.7, 0.

29. Resident care equipment is clean and maintained in safe operating condition: 14.1, 0.

30. Isolation techniques to prevent the spread of infection are followed by all personnel: 20.8, 0.

31. The facility has available at all times a quantity of linen essential for proper care and comfort of residents: 7.4, 5.1.

32. Food is stored, refrigerated, prepared, distributed and served under sanitary conditions: 36.3, 38.6.

Ranchers, others lodge protests to 10-fold expansion of Craters

POCATELLO (AP) – Ranchers and other eastern Idaho interests have lodged their objections to legislation that would expand Craters of the Moon National Monument by 10 times.

Fearing the denial of desert access and the accompanying loss of grazing and hunting privileges, they told National Park Service officials to pursue management alternatives for the 53,000-acre site that will mean no increase in the size of the restricted area.

The agency will complete the management alternatives study by July, presenting the information to supervisors for future action. Ivan Miller, from the agency's regional office in Seattle, told the group Wednesday in Pocatello that no preferred alternative would be identified.

Congressman Richard Stallings has introduced legislation to designate about 500,000 acres including the monument site as the Craters of the Moon and Great Rift National Preserve, one of the management alteratives under review. Stallings has also suggested a national park designation and the Park Service is holding a series of hearing this week on the proposals.

Park Service planner Doug Cornell conceded concern about the Stallings' proposal because he said it would create some management problems and put the agency in the business of grazing since the expansion would affect 20 existing grazing allotments.

"We don't like to be in the grazing management business if we can avoid it," Cornell said during a hearing Monday.

Power County rancher Kent Rudeen, whose allotment would be split three ways, accepted the concept of a national park designation, possibly covering several distinct sites, but not the dramatic expansion.

But Jim Nelson of Blackfoot maintained that the difficulty in finding a concessionaire for the Crystal Ice Caves near American Falls proves people are not all that interested in desert vacations.

"Our attitude is, we like it like it is," said Nelson. Those using the area now are willing to share the resource, he said, so "why does the park service have to throw us off?"

The hope of increasing tourism in the area was at least partially behind the proposal to upgrade the monument's designation, but many have voiced doubts that any change would have much impact.

"A national park will not preserve the desert," Nelson said, and Cornell agreed that the proposal "is not going to be a major boon to the tourist industry."

The other management alternatives under review include designating the monument a national park with no change in size, creating a Great Rift National Science Reserve, establishing a Great Rift National Park and Preserve and authorizing a Craters of the Moon National Monument and Great Rift National Conservation Area.

Legislative panel renews study of statewide junior college system

BOISE (AP) — A special legislative committee has launched another investigation into creating a statewide community college system, but this time the state may have the money to actually accomplish something.

"Anything you do is going to cost money," Rayburn Barton, executive director of the state Board of Education, told the joint House-Senate panel on Thursday.

The committee laid the groundwork for a series of hearings around the state this summer on a community college system, using legislation introduced in the waning days of this year's session as a base.

But outgoing House Education Chairman Janet Hay, R-Nampa, said the bill was introduced to provide a starting point for the summer-long probe and to spark debate over the concept itself.

"We have a lot of rural communities where it is very difficult for high school students and adults to get the kind of training they need in the workplace," said Mrs. Hay, who is a member of the interim committee.

The approach is intended to unify the two community colleges and the community college functions at Lewis-Clark State College and Boise State and Idaho State universities and eliminate the inequities in the financing schemes.

"There's a great deal of unfairness with the way community college functions around the state are financed," she said.

The bill would create six community college districts centered on North Idaho College in Coeur d'Alene, Lewis-Clark in Lewiston, Boise State in Boise, the College of Southern Idaho in Twin Falls and Idaho State in Pocatello with a new two-year institution created in Idaho Falls.

It calls for a gradual end of local property tax support for the Twin Falls and Coeur d'Alene schools, replacing it with state funds, and set up a uniform system of student fees for community college students, whether they attend programs in the two formal two-year schools or at the four-year institutions.

Legislative budget analyst Gordon Fisher said it would take at least $7 million a year from the state to cover the local property taxes now being used to support the Coeur d'Alene and Twin Falls schools. The state already provides about $8 million a year in support with the rest of the budget being financed by student fees.

In addition, equalizing the student fees at those two schools would mean a reduction in fees being charged community-college program students at the four-year institutions, and the loss of that money to those schools would have to be made up as well.

But in contrast to the last study that recommended a statewide community college system in 1983, when the state was facing budget deficits, the Idaho economy is now producing revenue surpluses.

Obituaries

Douglas T. Miller

RUPERT – Douglas Todd Miller, infant son of Douglas Todd and Alisa Damron Miller of Rupert, was stillborn, Thursday, May 24, 1990, at the Minidoka Memorial Hospital in Rupert.

RUPERT – Iris Jennie Olsen, 73, of Rupert, died Wednesday, May 23, 1990, at the Minidoka Memorial Hospital in Rupert.

She was born Aug. 11, 1916, in Rupert, the daughter of Walter A. and Jennie Sweet Rice. She attended schools in the Mini-Cassia area. She married Vern Olsen in 1941 in Pocatello and they were later divorced. She had lived in Washington, D.C., Alaska, Hawaii and moved back to Rupert in 1969 where she had since resided. She was employed by Simplot Soilbuilders for several years before her retirement.

Surviving are two sons, Jerry Olsen of Issaquah, Wash., and James Olsen of Anaheim, Calif.; seven sisters, Dolly Dowell, LaVeta Montgomery, Dorothy Freiburger and Ruby Hutton, all of Rupert, Clara Stockton of Cave Junction, Ore., Olive Short of Big Pine, Calif., and Bonnie Arban of Conifer, Colo.; and three grandchildren. She was preceded in death by one son, her parents and four brothers.

The funeral will be at noon Saturday at the Hansen Mortuary Chapel, 710 Sixth St. in Rupert. Burial will be at the Rupert Cemetery. Friends may call this afternoon and evening and before the funeral Saturday at the funeral chapel.

Cleo M. Jones

JEROME – Cleo M. Jones, 69, of Jerome and formerly of Corral, died Wednesday, May 23, 1990, at St. Benedict's Long Term Care Unit in Jerome.

She was born May 31, 1921, in Buhl, the daughter of Leslie J. and Nell A. Durfee. She attended school in Buhl and then moved to the Camas Prairie where she graduated from Camas High School. She later married Tom E. Jones on June 4, 1939, in Twin Falls. They made their home near Corral where they were involved in ranching. Due to ill health, she moved to Jerome in 1967, where she had since resided.

She was a member of the Fairfield LDS Church and the Occident Rebekah Lodge No. 58 of Fairfield.

Surviving are her husband, Tom E. Jones of Hagerman; four sons, Ronald E. Jones of Corral, Jerry Lee and Lawrence Ray Jones, both of Fairfield and Richard L. Jones of Boise; 12 grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her parents and one sister.

Burial will follow at the Hill City Cemetery in Hill City, Idaho. Friends may call from 1 to 7 p.m. today at Demaray's Gooding Chapel and one hour before the funeral at the church.

Services

TWIN FALLS — The graveside service for Ronald C. Dayley, 47, of Twin Falls and formerly of Burley, who died Monday, will be at 1 p.m. today at the Riverside Cemetery in Heyburn, with military rites by local veterans organizations and the National Guard. Friends may call from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. today at McCulloch's Funeral Home, 321 E. Main St. in Burley. The cortege will leave for the cemetery at 12:45 p.m.

The obituary for Ronald C. Dayley that appeared in Wednesday's paper contained two errors. He retired from the Air Force in 1984 not 1985 and was preceded in death by his mother and one brother.

HANSEN – The funeral for Floyd O. Pike, 72, of Hansen, who died Monday, will be at 2 p.m. today at Reynolds Funeral Chapel in Twin Falls, with the Rev. Brad Worden of the Hansen Assembly of God Church officiating. Burial will follow at Sunset Memorial Park in Twin Falls.

CASTLEFORD – The funeral for Jennifer Bobango, 23-month-old daughter of George and Carolyn Bobango of Castleford, who died Tuesday, will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Castleford Baptist Church, with the Rev. Dick Sullender officiating. A private family burial will follow at the West End Cemetery in Buhl. Friends may call from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. today at the Farmer Funeral Chapel in Buhl.

TWIN FALLS – The memorial service for Roy Lindell, 71, of Twin Falls, who died Monday, will be at 11 a.m. Saturday at Reynolds Funeral Chapel in Twin Falls. Cremation will take place. Interment of the cremains will take place at a later date. No formal viewing will take place. The family suggests memorial contributions may be made to the College of Southern Idaho Training Program for Police Cadets or to the Disabled American Veterans.

JEROME – The funeral for Tsuneo Ogata, 75, of Jerome, who died Monday, will be at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Hove-Robertson Funeral Chapel in Jerome, with the Rev. Robert Siebe officiating. Burial will follow at the Jerome Cemetery. Friends may call from 5 to 8 p.m. today at the chapel.

OAKLEY – The graveside service for Elizabeth "Betty" Poulton, 84, of Santa Clara, Calif., and formerly of Cassia County, who died Nov. 29, will be at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at the Oakley Cemetery. Local arrangements are under the direction of the Payne Mortuary in Burley.

GOODING – The graveside service for Floy Van Amburg, 87, of Gooding who died Jan. 1, will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Elmwood Cemetery in Gooding, with the Rev. Sid Harris officiating. Friends are asked to meet at the cemetery. Cremation took place in Salt Lake City. Memorials are suggested to the Idaho Youth Ranch.

Indians move bingo indoors following storm

FORT HALL (AP) — The Shoshone-Bannock Indian Tribes will conduct high-stakes bingo games at a meeting hall in Fort Hall this weekend after high winds blew down a tent erected for gaming at the Trading Post complex.

Arnold Appenay, a member of the Fort Hall Business Council and the Tribal Gaming Commission, made the announcement Thursday at a news conference to explain how the tribe's first bingo sessions would work.

Nathan Small, chairman of the Gaming Commission, said three sessions of bingo would be played daily on Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Each session will include 32 games, and participants must buy a $25 packet of bingo cards for each session.

Prizes will range from $125 to $1,500 or even possible $2,000, he said.

Small said the tribe anticipates no problems from law enforcement officials. Although some state officials have questioned whether state law allows gambling on Indian reservations, the tribe received approval in March from the U.S. Department of Interior.

northeast of Jerome. Police are looking for another man who may have been involved, Brant said.

Five of the 17 calves, meanwhile, had been returned as of this week, Posey said.

The calves turned up missing while he was in California for a medical check-up, Posey said.

All together, 12 of the calves had been located as of this week, Brant said, but positive identification was not possible since the animals were not been branded.

In another case, the department is investigating the reported theft of cattle from a dairy southwest of Jerome, Brant said.

The department is withholding other details until an arrest is made, Brant said.

Another case of missing cattle from a ranch in the eastern part of the county was solved when the animals, which had apparently wandered away, wandered back, Brant said.

Oregon man nearly sucked out of plane

SEATTLE (AP) — A passenger whose head and shoulders were sucked through the broken window of an airplane at 14,000 feet says his few seconds of terror won't cause him to stop flying.

"I'm 38 today and I'll still be an alive 38 tomorrow. I'm just happy to be alive," said Gale Sears of Portland, Ore.

SEARS

Sears said he remembers hearing a loud thud outside the cabin of Horizon Air Flight 2300 as the plane left Portland on Wednesday morning for Seattle.

He settled back, buckled into seat 2E as the 18-seat, twin-engine Fairchild Metro III climbed to 14,000 feet.

As the plane began its descent over Olympia, Sears heard a loud bang — the sound of the window next to his seat suddenly blowing out.

He was pulled toward a hole where the window had been, and his world went black. Rain pelted his face and shoulders.

"I just remember wondering: What in the world is going on? Is the plane going to explode? Am I going to go splat? Are we going to hit the ground?" Sears later recalled.

Airline officials said Sears' wide shoulders and two passengers who grabbed him may have saved him from being further sucked through the roughly 10-by-14-inch opening.

He came away with a stiff neck and puncture wounds in his hands from the window's shattered glass.

Oxygen masks were deployed for passengers and the plane made an emergency descent and safe landing at 8:50 a.m. at Seattle-Tacoma International Airport.

Sears was taken to a hospital, where he was treated and released.

Sears said he thought he popped back into the plane when the pressure equalized.

"I was still in my seat, but I lay across the lap of the gentleman next to me. He just held me, he held me."

Sears, financial manager for the Oregon National Guard, was on his way to a National Guard meeting in Harrisburg, Pa.

"All I know is that I was only that far from the prophet," he said, holding his fingers an inch apart. "But it didn't happen, and I'm extremely lucky."

After the accident, a man traveling with Sears passed him a scribbled note: "Gale — you should get first-class."

Horizon mechanics were looking at the plane to determine what caused the window to break. Windows on all 33 of Horizon's Fairchild Metro IIIs will be checked, said airline spokeswoman Nancy Hamilton.

She said the aircraft involved had only 700 hours of flying time and that there have been no similar problems on the airline's other Fairchild planes.

"The window was blown out. ... Nothing hit the window," she said. "It was a completely clean break. As far as we know, it's an isolated incident. We're trying to determine what caused it."

The Federal Aviation Administration and National Transportation Safety Board said they had assigned investigators to the case.

WAMSUTTER, Wyo. (AP) — A replacement driver of a Greyhound bus that crashed Thursday told the Wyoming Highway Patrol he was forced off the road by a tractor-trailer.

Up to eight passengers may have been seriously injured.

But patrolman Steve Kelso said the patrol also is investigating a report that driver Bobby Williamson, 50, of Chicago, fell asleep at the wheel as the bus roared westward along Interstate 80 just east of here.

All 46 passengers were taken to Carbon County Memorial Hospital in Rawlins, but only six or eight were expected to be held for overnight observation and treatment, Hospital Administrator Dick Mills said.

Investigators from the National Transportation and Safety Board from Denver went to the scene to search for the cause of the accident.

While the investigation was continuing Thursday afternoon, Kelso said preliminary results show the accident occurred when the bus failed to negotiate a right-hand curve. When the bus left the road, it traveled across the median before ramming into a drainage ditch.

Williamson told Kelso a large truck had played "highway tag," repeatedly passing the bus and then slowing to make the bus pass until the bus was finally forced off the road.

Geography professor claims WIPP site unsafe to store wastes

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The U.S. Department of Energy is wrong in its assessment that the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant near Carlsbad is a safe and impermeable dump for nuclear waste, a geography instructor who has spent more than a decade studying the WIPP site testified Thursday.

Richard Phillips, a geography and history instructor at the University of New Mexico and Albuquerque's Technical-Vocational Institute, told U.S. Environmental Improvement Agency representatives that the potential exists for plutonium to travel out of WIPP's ancient underground salt beds.

"I can't tell you the WIPP site will fail in the next five years, but it will fail," he said.

Phillips testified during the second day of hearings in Albuquerque on the Energy Department's petition to deposit non-radioactive hazardous waste at WIPP to determine if the waste would percolate out.

The DOE requested the so-called no-migration variance last year. The EPA granted preliminary approval of the variance in April, but required public comment before making a final decision.

WIPP is a DOE project to store radioactive materials from the nation's weapons production 2,150 feet below the surface in rooms carved out of ancient salt beds southeast of Carlsbad.

The variance would cover five years of tests by the DOE. If the DOE decides to use WIPP as a permanent repository, it must request and obtain a new variance from the EPA to continue use of the site.

Phillips, who gave EPA representatives maps and photographs outlining the findings of his research, said his doctoral dissertation was the result of years of studying WIPP and eight months of field work at the site.

Phillips said his studies show plutonium could reach the cavernous aquifers above the WIPP site, travel in unpredictable directions and velocities and eventually reach the Pecos River, where it could be carried downstream.

Moreover, he said, plutonium is capable of being flushed out very rapidly after major rainstorms.

Such findings contradict DOE studies that contend the aquifers are inactive and cannot be recharged by rainwater, Phillips said.

The DOE has said it is confident WIPP is a safe place to store waste.

Phillips said his research shows the cavernous aquifers are capable of discharging into Salt Lake, located southwest of the WIPP site. And if plutonium is carried into the lake, he said, it would remain there until high flood levels forced it into the Pecos River.

Two people — Ron Bhada, head of the chemical engineering department at New Mexico State University, and Charles Roybal, executive director of the New Mexico Mining Association, testified in favor of granting DOE the variance. The Mining Association's board of directors unanimously voted this month to support the no-migration variance.

Edwards fined $3,500 for slapping opponent

NEW YORK (AP) — James Edwards of the Detroit Pitson was fined $3,500 for slapping Ed Nealy of the Chicago Bulls during the fourth quarter of the second game of the NBA's Eastern Conference final series Tuesday night.

The Belfry to be site of Ryder Cup for 4th year

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP) — The Belfry, an English course that has been the site of two of the last three Ryder Cup matches, was awarded the 1993 renewal Thursday, beating back a challenge from Spain.

Europe's Ryder Cup committee decided, on the vote of chairman Lord Derby, to keep the match at the course in central England rather than move it to the Club de Campo on the outskirts of Madrid.

The Belfry was the European venue in 1985 and again last year for the biennial event between European and United States golf teams. It was in 1985 at Belfry that the Europeans ended 28 years of American domination by winning the trophy, which they kept with a tie on the same course last year. They also won on American soil in 1987.

Seve Ballesteros was an outspoken supporter for holding the competition in his home country, arguing that the Ryder Cup had been brought back to life by the introduction of players other than British or Irish to the European team.

Judge moves Spira's trial to Manhattan; attorney ready

NEW YORK (AP) — A Florida judge has moved Howard Spira's trial to Manhattan, giving the admitted gambler the home field advantage in his battle against charges he tried to extort money from George Steinbrenner.

"I feel so confident now that I could get a jury of 12 Yankees to acquit my client," attorney David S. Greenfield, who represents Spira, said after learning about the legal victory on Thursday.

U.S. District Judge William J. Castagna, in a ruling issued last Friday, approved Greenfield's motion for a change of venue to New York. Spira, 30, lives in The Bronx.

Spira is charged in an eight-count indictment with trying to extort money from Steinbrenner, the Yankees owner, and with threatening to harm Steinbrenner and ex-Yankees outfielder Dave Winfield.

Oilers take Stanley Cup with 4-1 conquest

The Associated Press

BOSTON — The Stanley Cup is Edmonton's again.

After a one-year break to recover from the shocking trade of Wayne Gretzky, the Oilers won the NHL championship for the fifth time in seven years with a 4-1 victory over the Boston Bruins Thursday night.

The Oilers won the series 4-1, taking all three games in Boston where the compact rink was supposed to crimp their flashy style.

They did it with more magical goaltending by Bill Ranford, more high-speed scoring by Glenn Anderson and Craig Simpson and more dazzling passing.

Ranford was the reason Thursday night. He stopped 30 shots and allowed only eight goals on 156 shots in the series. Lyndon Byers spoiled his shutout bid with 3:30 remaining in the game, but by then, it didn't matter.

Ranford, who played all 22 of the Oilers' postseason games, tied an NHL record of 16 wins in one playoff year set by Edmonton's Grant Fuhr in 1988 and equalled by Calgary's Mike Vernon last year.

That was more than enough to earn him the Conn Smythe Trophy as playoff MVP.

The Oilers obtained Ranford in March 1988 for Andy Moog, Boston's starting goalie in each of the last 16 games.

It was another night of frustration for Boston's big guns. Cam Neely, who had 55 regular-season goals, finished the series with no goals and four assists. Craig Janney, who had 19 assists in the other three rounds, didn't get a single point against Edmonton.

The Oilers, whose last Cup came in a 1988 sweep of the Bruins, won it for the first time on the road. They became the fifth team to win it five times.

But it was their first Cup without Gretzky, who was traded to Los Angeles on Aug. 9, 1988. The Oilers rebounded from a first-round loss to the Kings last season.

"This is so sweet because nobody expected us to win it in training camp," said Craig MacTavish. "When the playoffs started, no one picked us to win.

"As soon as we beat Winnipeg in the first round and the Kings beats Calgary, I knew the way to the Stanley Cup was clear if we played well. Winnipeg forced us to play great hockey and we were a better team for it."

The Oilers trailed the Jets 3-1 in their opening-round series before rallying. They were the seventh team to overcome such a deficit to win a playoff series.

Then they swept Los Angeles and Gretzky, and beat Chicago in six games.

The Oilers' first finals appearance ended in a loss to the New York Islanders in 1983. They won the Cup in 1984, 1985, 1987 and 1988. With Montreal winning in 1986 and Calgary in 1989, Canadian teams have won seven consecutive Cups.

The Bruins, who had the NHL's best regular-season record and began the series with an eight-game home winning streak, are 0-5 in final appearances since winning their fifth title in 1972.

Edmonton's John Muckler became the 14th coach to win the Stanley Cup in his first season.

"I can't say enough about our players. A lot of our young guys developed quicker than we thought they would," Muckler said. "Ranford was just great and our defensemen played a major role. They played intelligently and moved the puck well.

"We knew coming out of training camp that we'd be better than we were last year. But this is really unexpected. Everybody put the team first and did everything they had to to win."

After an even, fast-paced first period in which each team had 10 shots, Anderson scored at 1:17 of the second, then assisted on Simpson's goal at 9:31.

It was reminiscent of their performances in Tuesday night's fourth game, a 5-1 Oilers victory in Edmonton. Each had two goals and two assists then as they continually raced past Bruins into open spaces.

Anderson scored on an end-to-end rush. As he flew into the Boston zone, he faked to the right, drawing defenseman Don Sweeney that way, then cut inside between Sweeney and Ray Bourque.

He put a 5-footer between Moog's pads for his 10th goal of the playoffs and fourth of the series.

Bulls will try to channel energy back into game

The Associated Press

CHICAGO — The Chicago Bulls will try to channel Michael Jordan's anger at his teammates into a rapid rebound at home against the Detroit Pistons, who lead the NBA Eastern Conference finals 2-0.

It wasn't surprising that the Pistons guarded their turf at The Palace, winning the first two games of the best-of-7 series at Auburn Hills. But what bothers Jordan and the Bulls is Chicago's poor showing in those games.

The series continues with day games at Chicago Stadium Saturday and Monday, and the Bulls need at least one victory to force a fifth game at Detroit next Wednesday.

Jordan reportedly lashed out at his teammates at halftime of Tuesday night's 102-93 loss and some of the players said they had never seen him that angry. Completely out of character, Jordan stalked off after the game and refused to talk to the media.

"The fact that there is a little turmoil is not new," said center Bill Cartwright. "But compared to what went on when I was in New York, this is minor stuff. There's no air to be cleared out. The only air that has to be cleared is beating the Pistons."

Jerry Krause, the Bulls general manager, said the Bulls can win.

"I think our team was insulted about Tuesday night's loss, and now we just have to use it as a weapon," Krause said. "We need to win at home and then gain the home-court advantage. This team is capable of doing it."

Krause said he could understand Jordan's reaction — and his refusal to talk about the game with reporters.

"He's a great competitor, and all of us who are great competitors tend to take it out on ourselves," Krause said. "He is probably the most widely quoted and widely talked to athlete among the media in sports today. He has a right as a human being to have a night where he needs to be by himself."

Pistons coach Chuck Daly also figured the Bulls will use Jordan's tirade to their advantage.

"He's their emotional and physical leader, and they'll play better because of what he said and did," said Daly. "As far as I'm concerned, the series starts Saturday. We need to win at least one of these two games which would really set us up. I'd like to get it over in as few games as possible."

JORDAN

Confidence has been important in the Pistons' scheme. "It is a very important thing to have," said Joe Dumars, who has been the Pistons' leading scorer in the series. "If you don't have it, you lose games. I'm a pretty confident shooter now. It's just one of those situations where I feel good about my shot."

Dumars scored 27 points in the first game and 31 Tuesday night. Jordan had 34 points in the first game and then was held to a playoff low of 20 in Game 2.

"Our backs are against the wall, we have to win this game," said Chicago coach Phil Jackson.

John Paxson said the Bulls have talked about being more physical against the Pistons.

"We have to make a statement when they come into the lane," Paxson said. "We have to take a guy like Joe Dumars down before they take Michael down. I really believe Detroit likes the image of being the 'bad guys' and whether it's true or not, everybody believes it."

NFL to examine 49ers' cash flow in hearings

The Associated Press

IRVING, Texas — The NFL will examine the financial structure of the San Francisco 49ers at a hearing in mid-June to determine if it gives the Super Bowl champions an unfair edge, Commissioner Paul Tagliabue said Thursday.

The team, in 1988, became a subsidiary of the DeBartolo Corp., which also owns shopping malls, race tracks, and real estate. There has been a question of whether the corporation gives the 49ers a financial advantage over other teams in signing players.

Tagliabue said his personal opinion is "that it's doubtful that it does. It (the corporation) was formed until Sept. 30, 1988 and that was after the 49ers had won two Super Bowls with a quarterback named Joe Montana and a coach named Bill Walsh. I'm skeptical that it has produced a competitive advantage to the 49ers."

However, the hearing will be held in Tagliabue's office because of some concerns by some owners.

"The league put in a policy many years ago that an NFL team should be owned only by companies in football," Tagliabue said.

The commissioner has the power to levy a fine of as much as $500,000 on team found in violation of the policy, and take away draft choices.

Mize, Grady, Lowerly share lead in 1st round of Atlanta Classic

The Associated Press

MARIETTA, Ga. — Larry Mize and Wayne Grady had eagle-3s to highlight rounds of 6-under-par 66 and share the first-round lead with upstart Steve Lowery in the Atlanta Golf Classic Thursday.

Mize, winless since capturing the 1987 Masters, chipped in from 35 feet for his eagle on the 548-yard 11th and Grady, winner of last year's Westchester Classic, rolled in a 25-foot putt on the 499-yard 18th.

Lowery, who lost his card when he finished 157th on the money list in 1988, played a bogey-free round, parring his last eight holes. His longest birdie putt was a 20-footer on No. 16.

The trio had a two-shot lead over 10 others after an ideal day for scoring on the 7,018-yard Atlanta Country Club course.

"I scored well, got a lot out of it," said Mize, who has finished in the top three three time this year. "I'm very happy with it. Four birdies and the eagle on 11, my first one of the year."

Grady, who also had birdie putts of 25 and 40 feet, missed his shot at the lead alone when he bogeyed No. 9, his last hole of the day.

"I did not bad," the Australian said. "I just didn't hit it in trouble. If I missed a fairway, it was on the edge."

Lowery didn't expect to be where he was when the round ended.

"I haven't played very much this year because I haven't been exempt," he said. "I had to qualify to get in here. I guess it is a surprise to find me tied for the lead."

Lowery had played in only two tour events this year, finishing in a tie for 31st in both the Honda Classic and at Hattiesburg, Miss.

South Africa's Nick Price, who tied for second last week in the Colonial, and Scott Hoch, who lost the Masters in a playoff last year, headed the group at 68.

3-time Indy winner Rick Mears leads 500 pack

The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS — Rick Mears got back to the head of the pack Thursday as the 33 drivers in the Indianapolis 500 made their final on-track adjustments for Sunday's race.

The three-time Indy winner, who lost the spotlight this month to defending champion and teammate Emerson Fittipaldi and last year's second-place finisher, Al Unser Jr., drove his Penske-Chevrolet to a fast lap of 222.750 mph in racing trim.

Fittipaldi — who won his first Indy pole with a four-lap qualifying average of 225.301, breaking Mears' year-old record of 223.886 — was right behind at 221.593. The Brazilian driver was followed by Michael Andretti at 220.496.

The only other driver over 220 was 1969 winner Mario Andretti, Michael's father and fellow second-row starter, at 220.097. Geoff Brabham, who will start on the inside of the seventh row, was strong at 219.855, with Unser at 219.593.

All starters, along with first-alternate Salt Walther, made it onto the 2½-mile oval during the two-hour "Carburetion Day" practice — the only time between the end of qualifications and the start of the race that cars are allowed on the track.

There were no crashes or spins during the final practice. The only incidents were blown engines in the cars driven by 1986 winner Bobby Rahal and Canadian rookie Scott Goodyear.

Mears started the month as a strong favorite to win a record third consecutive pole, but lost ground to Fittipaldi and Unser before the start of qualifications when both turned laps over 228, unofficially the fastest ever at Indy.

His qualifying run of 224.215 was good enough to eclipse his old record, but only good enough for second place in qualifying. But Thursday, on a warm, sunny, nearly windless day, Mears was the fastest.

"That's about the best conditions we've seen this month," Mears said. "We made a couple of small adjustments, nothing serious. We're pretty happy with it.

"Obviously, we didn't have it full (of fuel) when we went 222. Later, we ran some laps with it filled up and it handled pretty well.

"The main thing we do in this practice is get comfortable in the car. It's the day we take a look at driver comfort things; what will affect you in the race. That's things like the placement of the mirrors, where the pedals hit and the padding in the seat."

Mears had admitted he was unhappy with his qualification run and that the car was not handling as well as he would have liked.

6 tie for lead after 1st round of the LPGA Corning Classic

CORNING, N.Y. (AP) — Non-winner Lisa Walters birdied her last three holes to join six other players in a tie for the lead after Thursday's first round of the LPGA Corning Classic.

Walters, Judy Dickinson, Trish Johnson, Tammie Green, Diana Heinicke-Rauch, Cathy Johnston, and Alice Ritzman all shot 3-under-par 68s on their first trip around the 6,006-yard the Corning Country Club Course.

Walters, who started on the back nine, earned her share of the lead with birdies on Nos. 7, 8 and 9, including a 25-foot putt on the seventh hole.

Of the leaders, only Dickinson, the LPGA president, and Green have any prior tour victories.

Dickinson, who also started on the back nine, had six birdies and led at 4-under late in the round. But the 12-year tour veteran bogeyed twice when she missed a putt on the par-three seventh and had to chip out from under a tree on the par-four ninth.

Dickinson said putting on the Corning course is difficult.

"I've always had trouble reading these greens," she said. "The key is being able to hit your irons in the right place to get a good putt."

Ritzman, an early starter, made three birdies, including a 30-foot shot on the par-4 13th hole, rated as the third most difficult hole on the LPGA Tour.

Green, playing in the same group as Ritzman, made up for bogeys on the first and fifth holes with birdies on the second, fourth and eighth. She drove into the rough on No. 18, but got up and down to save par.

Green said playing with Ritzman and Beth Daniel, one of several pre-tournament favorites, helped her.

"You know you have to play well," she said.

Daniel, the LPGA money leader, shot a 73.

Heinicke-Rauch birdied four holes and bogeyed the 13th, while Johnston birdied five and had bogeys on the third and 13th. Johnson, a native of Wales, had five birdies and two bogeys, on the sixth and 13th.

Defending champion Ayako Okamoto was in a group of six players at 70, one shot ahead of 1988 champion Sherri Turner and 1987 winner Cindy Rarick.

Hood got off to a promising start with an eagle on the second hole, one of only two made all day, and was 4-under before bogeying No. 6 and finishing at 69.

Gail Anderson-Graham, who shot a 77, had the other eagle on the ninth hole.

Maryland barred from 1991 ACC basketball tourney

By The Baltimore Sun

Barring a reversal or a reduction of sanctions by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the University of Maryland basketball team won't be allowed to participate in the 1991 Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, league and school officials said Thursday.

Maryland Athletic Director Lew Perkins said that there was mutual agreement Thursday at the conclusion of the ACC's spring meeting in Myrtle Beach, S.C., between the university and the conference to ban the Terrapins because their presence might jeopardize the league's newly signed television contract.

The ACC announced Wednesday that it has agreed to a one-year deal with CBS, worth an estimated $1.9 million, to broadcast as many as 12 league games, including the postseason tournament final from Charlotte, N.C. The ACC also has a contract for regional telecasts with Raycom.

"We certainly didn't want to jeopardize the television contract," Perkins said at a news conference Thursday after the meetings.

Maryland was banned from postseason competition for the next two seasons, and from live television appearances next season, by the NCAA in March for violations committed during the tenure of former Coach Bob Wade. The Terps are appealing those sanctions and will have their case heard before the NCAA Division I Steering Committee Aug. 1-3 in Monterey, Calif.

ACC Commissioner Gene Corrigan said the league had little choice but to ban the Terps from postseason league play, but added that no official vote was taken. "They (the other ACC athletic directors) were in the room," he said. "We didn't throw them out of the room. We talked about it. We said, 'Hey, we've got a problem.' "

Said Perkins: "We wanted to do what was in the best interest of Maryland. But we also wanted to do what was in the best interest of the conference. What's the alternative? Let's take the assumption they take delay the first game (of the ACC tournament), and we win. What are you going to do with the second game? Tape-delay the second game. If we win that, we're in the finals. It's on national television. They're going to tape-delay that? There's nobody in their right mind that would pick up that contract."

Clear Lake takes Inter-City golf tourney

The Times-News

SUN VALLEY — The Clear Lake Country Club team emerged the winner at the fourth weekly Magic Valley Lakes Inter-City Golf Association tournament at Elkhorn Tuesday.

Clear Lake, which started the day tied with Canyon Springs and Blue Lakes Country Club, finished the day with 47½ points, followed by Canyon Springs with 45½ and BLCC with 42½. Bigwood is fourth with 42, followed by Jerome Country Club with 41½, Twin Falls Municipal Golf Course with 37½, Elkhorn with 32, Gooding with 28, Burley with 27 and Rupert with 16½.

Net honors went to Sharon Ross of BLCC with 70, followed by Nellie Thomas of Canyon Springs with 74 and Danise Jones of Burley with 76.

Lupe Sutton shot a hole-in-one on No. 14.

The next match will be played at Jerome at Aug. 7.

Shrine football game slated for May 31

TWIN FALLS — The 13th Annual District 4 Shrine All-Star Football Game will be held Thursday, May 31.

The players, nominated by their coaches and selected by a panel of Fourth District Activities Association representatives, will be divided into north and south squads for the first time this year. Previously, the teams have been divided into east and west squads.

Proceeds from the game will go to benefit the Shriners' hospitals for crippled children and three burn centers operated by the organization.

The players, cheerleaders and coaches will visit the Intermountain Unit in Salt Lake City on Saturday.

The game will be played in Bruin Stadium at 7:30 p.m.

Baseball tourneys set for Glenns Ferry

GLENNS FERRY – The Eastern Elmore County Recreation District is sponsoring three baseball tournaments in Glenns Ferry this summer.

The annual Playday Girl's Tournament will be June 22, 23 and 24. A co-ed tournament is set for July 6, 7 and 8. The Ballburner Tournament is scheduled for July 13, 14 and 15.

Pick Six has $1,074,405 payoff

ALBANY, Calif. (AP) — A group of six bettors 300 miles away from Golden Gate Fields received a $1,074,405 Pick Six payoff, second largest in U.S. horse racing history, on Wednesday for selecting the winners of races three through eight at the track.

The Pick Six winners placed their bets at the Santa Barbara satelite wagering facility, and their names were not announced. The mutuel department at Santa Barbara said only that six checks were made out to different individuals who each got $149,214.16. There was a 20 percent withholding bite for the Internal Revenue Service before payment.

The group bet a total of $6,720 on various combinations, and its winnings included consolation payments for choosing five winners on 21 tickets and four winners on 240 tickets.

The only larger Pick Six payoff on record is the $1,145,219 won on Dec. 13, 1985 on action at the San Francisco Bay area's other track, Bay Meadows. Frank Judson of Santa Rosa, Calif., was the win ner.

Canseco asking for new contract in 10 days

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Jose Canseco says he wants a new contract and he wants it negotiated within the next 10 days.

Canseco, who hit two home runs in Oakland's 13-1 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers Thursday, said after the game he would like to play his entire career with the Athletics.

"I'll stay here as long as they want me," Canseco said. "... (Signing now) is good business sense because I want to play for the A's. I want to show good faith. ...

"I'd like to stay with Oakland the rest of my career. I'd like to set and break records here for the fans. But if A's make it extremely difficult then I can't stay here. ... The longer (negotiating) goes on the more difficult this is going to be."

Canseco added that he would "like to have it done in a week to 10 days."

The 25-year-old slugger has a one-year, $2 million contract with the Athletics and is eligible to become a free agent after this season. His agent, Dennis Gilbert of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Oakland general manager Sandy Alderson have already begun discussions on a long-term deal.

"We've approached them (with a proposal) and they've made a counter-offer," Canseco said. "We're working it out right now."

"There's a window of negotiation," Alderson said.

Gilbert declined to comment on any specifics regarding the negotiations other than to say, "We expect when Jose signs he will be the best-paid player in baseball."

Canseco's home runs on Thursday gave him nine in his last 12 games and 17 for the season, tying him with Detroit's Cecil Fielder for the most in baseball this season.

Cardinals beat Giants on Coleman homer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Vince Coleman's two-out home run in the 12th inning, his second of the season, gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-2 victory over the slumping San Francisco Giants on Thursday.

Coleman connected off reliever Ed Vosberg (0-1) to send the Giants, the defending National League champions, to their fifth setback in the last six games. The Giants are 16-25, fifth in the NL West, and began play 12 games out of first place.

Giants relievers had retired 17 straight batters between Coleman's double in the seventh inning and his game-winner.

"It's one of those things you dream about," Coleman said. "You want to be that hero. A jubilating feeling goes over your body when you're on the basepaths."

Coleman went 3-for-4 with two walks and a stolen base on a pitchout. He had two triples Wednesday night and is 11-for-23 against the Giants this season.

"Coleman's a hell of a weapon," Giants manager Roger Craig said. "He can beat you in a lot of ways."

Atlanta 15
Chicago 6

CHICAGO (AP) — Mike Scioscia and Lenny Harris each drove in four runs and Juan Samuel had four hits, including a homer. The Dodgers' 15 runs and 20 hits were season highs and helped make an easy winner of Fernando Valenzuela (4-3).

Harris, whose four RBIs were a career high, capped a six-run third inning with a three-run triple. Scioscia, who had a solo homer in the fourth, keyed a five-run seventh with a two-run single. Loser Les Lancaster (3-2) was knocked out in the third inning.

San Diego 5
New York 4

NEW YORK (AP) — Andy Benes held New York to three hits in seven innings, singled twice — his first two hits of the year — and drove in two runs as the San Diego Padres, following a players-only pregame meeting, defeated the New York Mets and Frank Viola 5-4 Thursday night.

The Mets had won two straight games since a similar meeting prior to Monday night's game in Los Angeles. The Padres came off two defeats in Montreal where they scored just one run.

Benes (4-4) allowed three runs in the fifth inning when Daryl Boston hit a solo home run, his third, and Gregg Jefferies hit a two-run shot, his fifth. Craig Lefferts went the last two innings for his sixth save. He gave up an unearned run in the eighth on Jefferies' double, a walk, a two-out error by shortstop Garry Templeton and a bases-loaded walk to Kevin McReynolds. He escaped further damage by striking out pinch-hitter Mark Carreon looking.

Viola (7-2) lost his second straight game, both to the Padres, and lasted only 3 1-3 innings, his shortest outing of the season. He gave up all five runs — four earned — and eight hits.

Stewart, Canseco lead A's past Milwaukee

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Dave Stewart became the American League's first eight-game winner and Jose Canseco had two home runs in his four hits as the Oakland Athletics beat the Milwaukee Brewers 13-1 Thursday.

Rickey Henderson remained two stolen bases shy of Ty Cobb's 62-year-old record for career steals. Henderson reached safely twice with singles in the first and eighth innings, but did not attempt to steal. He has 890, 48 behind Lou Brock's all-time mark.

"I'm feeling pretty good at the plate," Canseco said. "The main thing is experience. Knowing my strength and weaknesses. I'm being patient. To get those kinds of stats you have to be patient, but when you get your pitch you have to do something with it."

BOSTON (AP) — Roger Clemens pitched a five-hitter for his 10th victory in 11 lifetime decisions against Kansas City.

Clemens (7-2) struck out seven, including Danny Tartabull and Willie Wilson three times each, and walked one en route to his second complete game.

Baltimore 3

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Chicago White Sox beat the Baltimore Orioles for the fifth time in 10 days Thursday as Ron Kittle hit a three-run homer and Dan Pasqua had two RBIs in a 5-3 victory.

Kittle's homer, his eighth, capped a five-run fourth inning in which the White Sox had five straight hits off starter Jay Tibbs (2-5).

Minneapolis 5
New York 4

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Pinch-hitter Gary Gaetti's high chopper back to the mound with the bases loaded scored Shane Mack with one out in the ninth inning as the Minnesota Twins beat the New York Yankees 5-4 Thursday night.

The Yankees tied the score 4-4 with two runs in the top of the ninth off Rick Aguilera (1-1), who had blown only one save opportunity in 12 chances entering the game.

Texas 3
Detroit 2

DETROIT (AP) — Rafael Palmeiro's home run in the seventh inning snapped a tie as the Texas Rangers edged the Detroit Tigers 3-2 Thursday night in a battle of veteran pitchers.

Knight-Ridder Newspapers

PHILADELPHIA — It isn't George Archer's fault that his birthday falls only two months before Lee Trevino's or three months before Jack Nicklaus's.

There are, after all, certain rubs of the greens over which a person has no control.

In almost any other year, Archer, who turned 50 last Oct. 1, probably would be the toast of Senior PGA Tour. In October, he became the third player, following Arnold Palmer and Gary Player, to win his Senior debut. (Nicklaus became the fourth earlier this year.) He opened the 1990 season by winning January's Tournament of Champions.

He is fifth on the money list this season, with $179,581 in earnings in 11 events as he heads into the 54-hole Bell Atlantic Classic, which gets under way Friday at Chester Valley Golf Club in Malvern, Pa.

Yet, Trevino's numbers dwarf Archer's. "Super Mex" has won four titles in eight appearances, including last week's stop in Kingwood, Texas. He already has pocketed $320,000, almost $80,000 more than the runner-up, second-year Senior Mike Hill, brother of defending Bell Atlantic champion Dave Hill. And Nicklaus has taken home $145,000 in only two events.

But the 6-5, 195-pound Archer says that just being able to participate in perhaps the best mulligan that life has to offer means never having to feel overshadowed.

"I've been sneaky quiet," Archer said Wednesday, after competing in the first of the two pro-am rounds. "I'm just going out there and doing what I've always done, which is play golf. I'm going along, having some fun, and that's really what it's all about. If not for this, I'd be near the end of the line, no doubt about it. I struggled the last few years on the regular tour, but it's much nicer to be over here. I knew I could come out and play. Now, I'm at the start of a new career."

The most he made in one year on the PGA circuit was $207,543, in 1984. From 1964 to '89, Archer, who still is recognized as one of the best putters ever, made slightly more than $1.8 million in posting 12 victories, including the 1969 Masters.

"But you've got to realize," Archer said, "that when I had my big years, we used to win $20,000 for first place. Now, they're getting maybe $180,000."

Of course, it's not as though anyone's complaining.

"Greed's a terrible thing, you know, but I'm a greedy guy," Archer said, smiling. "Golf's always coming up with promotional things, and there's a lot of people who want to be a part of it. When they were trying to figure out the chemistry of this (Senior tour), it was, like, 'Ah, it might not work.' It hasn't really taken off in baseball, basketball or tennis. But our tour is just exploding. It's a very 'in' thing. I guess nothing stays the same forever, and I'm no great forecaster of the future, but there's no reason why it can't continue to grow.

"Ten years ago, nobody visualized this. But I felt 20 years ago that the PGA Tour was definitely making a mistake in not expanding. Other sports were doing it. They could have split up into an East and West Coast tour, with the best of both getting together for the majors. It made sense, but the guys in control didn't want it. Golf is a function, a happening.

PHOENIX (AP) — The Portland Trail Blazers are halfway to their first NBA finals berth in 13 years, while the Phoenix Suns might be down to their final two games, just like last year.

The Trail Blazers overcame a 22-point deficit to beat Phoenix 108-107 Wednesday night in Portland for a 2-0 lead in the best-of-7 series for the Western Conference championship.

"I've NEVER been involved in a comeback like this, either as a player or a coach," said Portland's second-year head coach Rick Adelman, who played for the Blazers from 1970-73. "I keep saying it about this team — they don't quit. I don't care what the circumstance is."

Portland, eliminated from the playoffs in the first round the past four years, last won a conference crown in 1977 by sweeping the Los Angeles Lakers 4-0, then taking the NBA title by beating Philadelphia in six games.

Phoenix was swept 4-0 by the Lakers in last year's conference finals and hopes to avoid a repeat.

The series shifts to the Arizona Veterans Memorial Coliseum here for Game 3 Friday night and Game 4 Sunday afternoon.

"We haven't lost three games in a row all season, and we're not going to let it happen Friday, either," Suns coach Cotton Fitzsimmons said. "I am confident that we will bounce back."

His team's confidence has to be shaken after blowing leads of 57-35 in the second quarter, 59-41 at halftime and 70-50 in the third quarter.

The Blazers' 18-point halftime comeback equalled the second-biggest in NBA playoff history.

"It was very strange," said forward Tom Chambers, who paced Phoenix with 28 points and 14 rebounds. "We tried to protect the lead instead of playing aggressively and attacking like we did in the first half. We got passive. Maybe we thought we could coast through, but you should never do that to a team of that caliber."

"We let them come back and make it close and that's all they wanted," Suns guard Jeff Hornacek said. "They were scrambling all over the place, and you've got to destroy a team that's doing that. We didn't rotate the ball to take advantage of that. We played right into their hands by taking long shots."

Portland guard Terry Porter scored 23 of his 28 points in the second half, including a 3-point goal to tie the score at 106 with 28.4 seconds remaining and a decisive 13-foot jumper with 12.7 seconds left.

"I think we got kind of a wake-up call at halftime," Porter said. "Our worst enemy was our first-half offense. We were really taking a lot of long shots. We turned things around in the second half. It's got to affect Phoenix a little bit to give up such a big lead. This will definitely leave a bad taste in their mouths."

"We stole this one and we're not going to jail for it," said forward Jerome Kersey, who had 29 points and 11 rebounds. "Now, their backs are to the wall and we're able to breathe a little easier."

BALTIMORE (AP) — In their effort to duplicate the success of last year's Orioles, the Chicago White Sox are helping write a horrid epilogue to Baltimore's 1989 storybook season.

Armed with the youngest roster in the major league, the White Sox are attempting to do what Baltimore did last year by becoming a pennant contender.

Chicago took another step in that direction Wednesday night by beating the Orioles for the fourth time in nine days. While the White Sox improved to 22-14 — compared to 16-20 a year ago — the Orioles fell six games under .500 and into the American League East cellar.

"This year we pattern ourselves on the Orioles of last year," said Chicago manager Jeff Torborg. "We want to make a turnaround like they did."

So far, the White Sox are on course to complete such a reversal. Coming off last year's dismal 69-92 season, they have combined consistent hitting with sensational pitching to stay close to Oakland in the AL West.

The White Sox have six rookies on their roster, and the team's average age is 26½. But despite their relative inexperience, Chicago is batting over .260 and ranks among the league's top three in ERA.

The bullpen, led by Bobby Thigpen (12 saves), has been excellent. In the last 12 games, Chicago's relievers have accounted for five wins and five saves.

"We believe in ourselves right now," said designated hitter Dan Pasqua, who hit two homers Wednesday. "Ever since spring training, everybody's been doing their jobs and as long as they continue to do that, we'll continue to play well."

The Orioles, meanwhile, are finding it extremely difficult to come up with a suitable encore to last year's surprise season in which they rebounded from a 54-107 record to finish 87-75.

Baltimore hasn't been above .500 since April 23 and ranks last in the league in team-batting average. Their starters are 10-16 with an ERA over 4.10.

"We are not playing anywhere near as consistent baseball as we were last year," declared Manager Frank Robinson. "Last year we were in just about every ballgame with a chance to win it. We're not this year."

The main problem has been the hitting. Baltimore got just two hits against the White Sox, the 17th time this season they have been held to six hits or less.

Only three players are batting over .255, and only Joe Orsulak owns an average over .270 among those players with at least 30 at bats.

"You always think maybe there's something you can do, maybe there's something you're overlooking, something you haven't done, so you never stop trying," Robinson said. "But it certainly gets a little bit more difficult every day that you don't break out of this thing."

Now, he says he's confident he can put the shot even farther.

Barnes broke the record last week with a throw of 75 feet 10¼ inches, and he spotted the break in form while watching videotapes.

"I feel like I threw it on a stiff left leg," Barnes said. "... I got the hip completely through the throw, which I was real happy with, and I had really, really nice release. A real nice flip.

"But my left leg was very stiff. I don't know if it was apprehension of fouling or what ... but, with my left leg, I didn't generate any lift, like a jump shot or some of my throws in the past."

In spite of the flaw, Barnes' throw was easily longer than the mark of 75-8 by East Germany's Ulf Timmerman in 1988. Barnes won a silver medal at the Seoul Olympics, losing the gold to Timmerman on the final throw of the meet.

Barnes, 23, now holds both the indoor and outdoor marks. He set the indoor record of 74-4¼ last year at Dallas.

"The indoor record felt so much more solid," Barnes said. "I'm just so much more stronger and quicker now. I've got a whole lot more tools to work with now.

"I'm doing some things right and some things wrong. I still don't have it all together."

Barnes, who has the top five puts in the world this year, will get another chance to put it all together when he competes at the Bruce Jenner Classic track and field meet Saturday at San Jose City College.

In the week since setting the record at UCLA, Barnes has spent countless hours on the phone. "It's really been a blur," he said.

But his few quieter moments of reflection have been surprising.

"All these things have been going through my mind," Barnes said. "It's been real nostaglic for me. It's been real involuntary. All the things I thought would feel like, it hasn't been anything like that."

Starting with the celebration after the record.

"We didn't even go out to dinner that night," Barnes said. "I sat around the house that night and said, 'This is it?'

"No celebration. No nothing. But that was what I wanted to do because I was exhausted."

DAV to answer questions, hold clinic

TWIN FALLS – The Disabled American Veterans van will be in town from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. today at the DAV Hall, Harrison Street and Shoup Avenue. A national service officer will be on hand to answer questions on veterans' benefits and sign up DAV members. In addition, the group provides a stress clinic for veterans who suffer stress problems related to their military service. The program takes place from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. each Wednesday at the hall. For more information, call Don Overlin at 734-5055.

Americans quick to make excuses to justify behavior

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: About five years ago, I gave up my career as a pharmacist to become a police officer. It was a painful decision, since I had become friends with many of my customers, and I knew I would miss them. However, the attitud of many customers at the pharmacy was too discouraging.

One of my customers was a very obese woman who came in faithfully for her amphetamine pills every 30 days. She used them for weight loss. After a few months, I asked her why she didn't try a weight-loss program. She said she had a "slow" metabolism and ate only one meal a day. Well, I happened to see her at an "all you can eat" buffet, and she put away three times as much food as I – and I'm a man, 6 feet tall and weigh 215 pounds – and I play handball three times a week!

Abby, America has become a society of "excuse makers." No matter what a person does wrong, there's always an excuse to justify it.

I have sold medication to drug abusers, bodybuilders, married spouses with VD and people with emphysema who still smoke while using oxygen. They all had excuses! I am now a police officer, and do you know what? Many people we arrest have "excuses" for breaking the law. America did not become the great country it is today by making excuses.

If one day we are taken over by a harder-working, better-educated country, I wonder what our excuse will be. Sign me

... NO EXCUSES

DEAR NO EXCUSES: I tried hard to find an excuse to junk this painfully honest letter, but I couldn't find one. So, here it is, warts and all.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the Census Bureau urging everyone to fill out and return the 1990 census forms.

Living in a small country town, I received and filled out my census form. In 11 places it stated, "Do not mail the form – it will be picked up by the census taker."

Well, I am still waiting.

An article in our local newspaper said that the census people were disappointed in the number of forms that had been returned. I called the local newspaper and asked if they knew whether the forms would be picked up – or should we mail them back? They said they would get back to me with the answer.

I'm still waiting.

Two of my neighbors never received a form to fill out. A couple of other neighbors have their forms completed and are waiting for the census taker to come by to pick theirs up.

They're still waiting.

— STILL WAITING IN QUEEN CREEK, ARIZ.

DEAR STILL WAITING: Move over – hundreds of others are also waiting, including this writer who lives in California.

Everything you'll need to know about planning a wedding can be found in Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Just married?

The Times-News welcomes your wedding announcement. Please call 733-0931, or visit our offices at 132 Third Street West, for a wedding form.

We ask that the information be typed and the form returned to our office along with a photograph, black and white preferred.

Your announcement will be published as space permits. You may pick up your photo at The Times-News once the announcement has appeared in the paper.

LEGAL NOTICE

INTENT TO REPEAL RULES
The Idaho Department of Employment, pursuant to Section 67-5203, Idaho Code, hereby publishes Notice of Intent to Repeal Rules governing the administration of Employment Programs, as provided in Section 72-1333(b), Idaho Code.
Rules IDAPA 09.41.021, .022 and .023, The delation of these rules will end the Department's participation in the activity of verifying employment eligibility (the 19 percent) of applicants for job referral services, on June 30, 1990.
No hearing shall be convened unless requested in writing by twenty-five (25) persons, by a governmental subdivision or agency, or by an association representing a petition with signatures of not less than twenty-five (25) members of the organization. Written comments or hearing requests may be submitted, on or before May 31, 1990, to the Department of Employment Legal Counsel, 317 Main Street, Boise, Idaho 83735.
Julie M. Kilgrow
Director
PUBLISH: Friday, May 11, 18, 25, 1990.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC COMMENT PERIOD AND NOTICE OF HEARING
SUBJECT: Two (2) topics are presented for public review and comment:
1. Two fiscal year 1991 municipal wastewater construction assistance lists: one for state-only Stop 1 (Planning) grants; and one for 1991 state revolving loans, including a four-year planning list.
2. The annual preparation of an Intended Use Plan (IUP) to be used in conjunction with the annual revolving loan priority list to identify those projects which are most likely to use available assistance and oral loan monies during a given year.

PURPOSE: Notice is hereby given that the Director of the Idaho Department of Health & Welfare (IDHW) through the Division of Environmental Quality (DEQ) has scheduled a public hearing to:
1. Acquaint the public with potential candidates for FY91 state grant and loan lists to do wastewater construction projects;
2. Discuss in full detail the relationship between revolving loan project priority lists (past, present and future) and the IUP. Comments soon and will be prepared annually to prescribe which projects from a revolving loan priority list will become final recipients of limited loan funds; and
3. Discuss in detail how DEQ will, as a means of making maximum and efficient use of available revolving loan funds, make project substitutions in the IUP.

PROPOSED ACTION: The Department's Water Quality Bureau proposes under Docket No. 10PL-9001, to award grants and accounts to eligible projects in the upcoming fiscal year. Therefore, it should be understood that both loans and grants will be made only as reserves allow. Candidates for loans and grants should observe target application dates. Communities failing to meet application dates may be bypassed in favor of lower ranked projects.
AUTHORITY: In compliance with Section 67-5203(a)(1), Idaho Code, and IDAPA 16.01.4020.03. and IDAPA 16.01.12020.03, notice is hereby given that the above priority lists are available for public review. These actions are authorized pursuant to Title 39, Chapter 36, Idaho Code.
PUBLIC HEARING SCHEDULE: Public hearing on the priority lists and the development and use of IUP will be held on June 14, 1990 at 7:00 p.m., in Conference Room B at the Division of Environmental Quality, 1410 N. Hilton Street, Boise, Idaho.
The hearing site will be accessible to the physically disabled. Interpreters for persons with hearing impairments and brailled or taped information for persons with visual impairments can be provided upon five days' notice. For arrangements, contact the undersigned at (208) 334-5564.
DESCRIPTIVE SUMMARY: Each year the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, Divison of Environmental Quality (DEQ) prepares a priority list of potential revolving loan candidates for the upcoming fiscal year. A separate Stop 1 (Planning) list is also prepared annually using funds from the state's Water Pollution Control Account.
Also prepared in association with the revolving loan list is an IUP which, in part, contains a ranking of candidates selected from the aforementioned loan priority list. The IUP contains candidates most likely to use limited loan funds based mainly on readiness to proceed. In accordance with state and federal guidelines and regulations, the DEQ will exercise a great deal of flexibility in choosing loan projects for the IUP list to assure the most complete and timely use of available state and federal loan funds is made. DEQ will need this flexibility to allow substitution of projects on the IUP list for those that are unable to accept or qualify for a loan. Substitutions will be made from both the current-year and four-year (planning) portions of a loan priority list.
SUBMISSION OF WRITTEN COMMENTS: ASSISTANCE ON TECHNICAL QUESTIONS: Anyone may submit comments regarding the proposed lists. Written and/or verbal comments may be submitted at the above-mentioned public hearing. For technical information, contact Alan Stanford, Bureau of Water Quality, Division of Environmental Quality, 1410 N. Hilton Street, Boise, Idaho 83720, telephone (208) 334-5855.
All written comments and data concerning this proposal must be directed to the undersigned and must be received on or before 5:00 p.m., MDT, by June 25, 1990.
AVAILABILITY OF MATERIAL: An information package containing materials pertinent to this notice is available for public review. Materials may be reviewed in the Department of Health & Welfare's Administrative Procedure Section or at any of the following locations:

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

BOBBY WOLFF

— Havelock Ellis.

"All three missing club honors were placed wrong," lamented an unlucky South. "Change the location of any one of those three cards, and I make the game."

Dummy's diamond ace won, and a diamond was ruffed. The ace and king of trumps were cashed, and a low club from dummy went to South's king and West's ace. West switched to the heart queen, South's ace winning while East signaled with the 10. A club was led to dummy's nine and East's 10, and another heart lead knocked out dummy's king. South then led a third heart to East, hoping to get a ruff and discard, but it didn't work. The defenders got three clubs and a heart, and the game went one down.

Was it wrong for South to have been optimistic about his club finesses? On another day with another hand, it would not be unreasonable to expect to win at least one of the club finesses. With today's hand, it was a foolish exercise, since there is a way to cinch the game.

After eliminating diamonds and drawing trumps, South should cash the top hearts and exit with a heart. Regardless of which defender wins, South cannot lose more than three tricks. If a defender leads clubs, South must win at least one club trick. If a defender leads another suit, South enjoys a ruff and discard.

Studebaker publishes poem to benefit CSI

TWIN FALLS – "The Bruneau Desert," a poem by College of Southern Idaho creative writing instructor William Studebaker, has been published as a broadside to benefit the College of Southern Idaho Foundation.

The broadside was printed on heavy paper, measuring 9 inches by 12 inches and suitable for framing. David Babb, a CSI art student, illustrated the poem.

The tradition of the broadside, or broadsheet, dates back to the 15th century, when it was originally used for political literature, according to Penelope Reedy-Sloan, CSI Literary Club president.

It was also a popular medium employed by poets for the distribution of popular ballads, often sold on street corners by peddlers. Broadside collecting has become a popular pursuit of antiquarians, or book collectors.

A limited edition of 225 copies was printed. Twenty-five autographed copies are available at a cost of $25 each, and unsigned copies are available for $10. All proceeds will benefit the college foundation. For more information, call the foundation at 733-9554 ext. 242.

Events will include a hat contest, door prizes (including a mountain bike donated by Riverwear Sports), food and live entertainment by The Suzy Markley Band.

Summer theater school set to focus on development

TWIN FALLS – "Rehearsals for Life," a College of Southern Idaho theater school for students ages 8 to 18, will be offered for the first time this summer.

The program will run from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday from July 9 through July 26 in the Fine Arts building.

According to Professor Laine Steel, who will direct the school, the program will require concentration and commitment and will help students develop memory, movement and communication skills, problem-solving abilities and creative thinking.

Steel says students will experience drama as an art form and as a learning medium for personal development. Instruction will include work in stage movement, ensemble acting, voice projection, make-up techniques, puppetry, auditioning skills, scripts and technical skills.

Fee for the three-week program is $50. For more information, call Steel at 733-9554 ext. 340 or CSI's continuing education division at 734-0269.

Deadline for Music Fest '90 registration falls on June 1

TWIN FALLS – Registration is due June 1 for Music Fest '90, slated June 25-June 29 on the College of Southern Idaho campus.

The day camp offers an opportunity for junior and senior high school students to interact musically and socially with sessions daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

All students take part in the camp choir. Students pick five other classes from offerings in band instruments, guitar, vocal music, strings, piano and electronic music. Private lessons also are available.

Guest artists and faculty at the camp will include pianist Mark Neiwirth, violinist and Boise State University professor Craig Purdy, musical theater specialist Margaret Fogwell, CSI professors Carson Wong and Lawrence Curtis, Mini-Cassia music educator James Keezer and vocalist Eileen Farrell.

Cost for the camp is $90, with a $25 deposit due June 1 and the balance required June 25. Registration will be accepted after June 1 on a space-available basis. Transportation to CSI will be available from Burley-Oakley, Buhl, Filer, Gooding, Wendell and Jerome for $15.

For more information, call camp director Camille Cox at 733-5227 or CSI at 733-9554 ext. 270.

Sell-out crowd welcomes Clark to Jackpot

By JULIE FANSELOW
Times-News writer

JACKPOT – Perennially popular picker Roy Clark returns to Cactus Pete's this weekend for a sold-out engagement in the Gala Showroom.

The genial guitar virtuoso, probably best known for his 22 years on the country music television show "Hee Haw," last visited Jackpot in the fall of 1988.

Since then, he's been as busy as ever maintaining a touring schedule of some 220 dates a year. He appears everywhere from county fairs to Caesar's Palace to his own down-home Celebrity Theatre in Branson, Mo., an Ozark Mountain town with a 4½-mile long "strip" of country music venues.

He also took time out to attend his family's annual reunion in Virginia earlier this month. But Clark's publicist, Carol Anderson, noted the performer probably wouldn't get much of a break there.

There were to be plenty of pickers on hand, she explained. "His daddy plays guitar. That's how he learned," Anderson said, referring to Clark. "They have a good ol' time."

Vickie Rice, entertainment coordinator at Cactus Pete's, said Clark is one of the Nevada resort's top draws, noting that tickets for Clark's shows this weekend went on sale April 25 and were sold out by May 1. "We were down to slim pickings in about four days," she added.

"One thing about Roy Clark is he's so musically talented," said Rice. "His versatility really attracts the crowd around here. People know that he puts on a good show."

Clark's achievements are many. He has twice toured the Soviet Union, once in 1976 and again in 1988. He was the first national ambassador for UNICEF and the first country music artist ever to host "The Tonight Show."

He was named Entertainer of the Year in 1972 and 1973 by the Academy of Country Music, and earned the Country Music Association's version of the award in 1973.

Roy Clark, well-known for his work on 'Hee Haw,' sold out his Jackpot engagement by May 1

"Take away all the 'Hee Haw' humor, the mischievous child antics and the fair-to-middlin' vocals from Roy Clark's arsenal, and what you have left is the skill that sets him apart," wrote John Burnes of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch in a review of a recent show. "And that skill is his uncompromised and tasteful command of any-

Ethnic heritage display begins trip across Idaho

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

HAGERMAN - A traveling exhibit of Idaho ethnic heritage photographs will make its public debut in Hagerman Saturday during the third annual Hagerman Horse State Fossil Day Celebration.

"It's a very elaborate display," said Judy Ouderkirk of Boise, state committee coordinator for the Idaho Centennial Commission. "It's a work of art. We're very excited about it."

The $70,000 project took well over two years to produce, she said. Teams of historians were hired to gather old photographs of early Idahoans and write short, entertaining histories on each ethnic group that has lived in Idaho. The photos are from family albums, museums, historical societies, Indian reservations and private collections.

The committee divided the world into eight regions and then traced people from those regions to Idaho. On 24 4x6-foot display panels, the historic photographs, texts and maps are grouped according to ethnic origin. The exhibit covers people from Brazil, France, China, Denmark and many other lands.

"It answers questions on why they came, how they got here and what they're doing now," Ouderkirk said. "It's an exhibit to educate Idahoans on the number of ethnic groups we have living within the state of Idaho."

Last-minute work on the exhibit is continuing, so the display in Hagerman will be a "sneak preview" rather than the full display, said Wes Gates of Moore Publishing Inc. in Twin Falls. MPI was commissioned to build the displays and arrange the photographs, but the project turned out to be much larger than anticipated, he said.

Final "delivery date" for the entire exhibit is June 1, Gates said, but the major part of it is ready and will be taken to Hagerman Saturday.

Gates has helped gather pictures from many family albums and also has worked on the historical research to accompany the photos.

The camera had been invented by the time the first settlers arrived in Idaho, Gates said, and some of the state's first families are still here. As a result,

Stops for exhibit set across valley

HAGERMAN – A preview of the Idaho Ethnic Heritage traveling exhibit of photographs will be in Hagerman at the Catholic Church, across State Street from the city park. It will be open to the public Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m.

During Western Days celebration in Twin Falls the first week of June, the exhibit will be on display in downtown. It then goes to the Magic Valley Mall for two weeks and on to Burley for a weekend.

From there, the exhibit goes to eastern and northern Idaho and to Boise in late October.

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

HAGERMAN - Scandinavian, Ukrainian and Czechoslovakian dancers will perform in the Hagerman City Park on Saturday afternoon during the city's Fossil Day Celebration.

Also in the lineup are Irish Step dancers with Irish flute music, Basque dancers, Mexican dancers and German dancers.

These ethnic groups, she said, will also display their cultures through food and craft displays at the park.

One performer will be Mati Murumaa of Twin Falls, a native Estonian who has performed professionally as a dancer and contortionist in Europe and the Soviet Union.

"He stands on his hands, wraps his legs around him, holds the microphone between his toes and speaks fluent English," Weir said. "He's quite a handsome man and he's

Consultant stresses that arts can rise above stuffy image

By JULIE FANSELOW
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS – No one will ever accuse the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra of being dull.

To kick off its season ticket campaign, the symphony's conductor agreed to ride in the sidecar of a Harley-Davidson, leading a parade of motorcycles to the manufacturer's factory. The campaign's theme: "Rev up for a Thunderous Season."

Audrey Baird, director of audience relations for the orchestra and a well-known consultant to arts groups, cited the campaign as one example of how cultural organizations can reach out to their audiences and remind people that the arts are fun.

"People said 'Gosh, the symphony isn't stuffy after all,'" she recalled.

Baird was in town last weekend to lead a workshop for about 25 representatives of Magic Valley arts and community organizations. Her "Sound Advice" seminar was co-sponsored by the Magic Valley Arts Council and the College of Southern Idaho.

She urged the groups' leaders to open their organizations to new and different people. The more diverse a group's members are, she said, the stronger it will be.

The best place to look for "new blood" is in the audience, she added. People who already enjoy performances by the symphony, theatrical group or ballet might love a chance to get involved behind the scenes. "We are all flattered when we think we are needed," she added.

Baird encouraged participants to think big and be creative. She told a story of the symphony in Owensboro, Ky., a community of about 54,000. Each year, the symphony's league raised funds with a patio party costing $15 per person. They usually made about $1,500.

Several years ago, the party was going to be held at a home that looks like Tara, fabled mansion from "Gone With The Wind." Baird suggested the league promote the event using Margaret Mitchell's tale as a theme.

The league kept the $15 ticket category, but it also gave patrons a chance to be "Rhett Butlers" with a $25 donation or "Scarlett O'Haras" for $50. The party made $8,600 that year. The next year, with a "Great

BSU group seeks picture of stallion

Tom Trusky, BSU English professor, is offering $250 for a suitable slide to be used on the cover of "Wild Horse Tamer," a novel by the late Idaho writer Glenn Balch. Slides should be sent to Trusky, English department, Boise State University, 1910 University Drive, Boise, Idaho 83725, by June 15. A self-addressed stamped envelope should be enclosed for return of the slides. Selection for the cover will be made by July 1. The book will be published Oct. 1.

"Wild Horse Tamer" is being published in conjunction with the Idaho Centennial Commission. The book will include an afterword by "Statesman" columnist Tim Woodward, plus a brief biography of Balch by his former wife, Elise Balch.

Fran Widener Caward of Hagerman won first place in the senior division, and Amy Prescott of Twin Falls took first place in the ladies division. They will be competing in June at the National Fiddle Contest in Weiser.

Archie Turner of Twin Falls won third place in the champion division, Gayla Jan Tanaka of Twin Falls captured fourth place in the junior division, and Mannie Shaw of Fairfield took fourth place in the senior division. Margie Collins of Twin Falls landed fifth place in the ladies division.

Gatsby" theme, it raised $11,000. And a year later, with a "Dallas" motif, the party pulled in $17,000.

Other ideas she offered:

• The Las Cruces, N.M., Symphony capitalized on one of the area's biggest businesses, pecan farms, by using the slogan "Shell out for the Las Cruces Symphony."

• Welcome Wagon hostesses in the Milwaukee area pass out brochures offering a free pair of tickets to the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra concert of the newcomer's choice.

• The Indianapolis Ballet held a Black-Tie Bingo party. Cost was $25 per person, and participants didn't really need to dress formally. They only needed to wear a black tie in some way, and prizes were given to those who donned their ties most creatively.

Baird told participants to ignore people who say new ideas won't work or those who insist an event must be done in a certain fashion "because it's always been done that way."

"Any city resists change," she said. "There will always be people who complain, because they're in a groove. Try it anyway."

"He's a pretty good act," Weir said.

Mati, 42, says his five- to eight-minute performance is self-taught, based on the eastern art of yoga.

"I'm quite flexible," he said. "I didn't know, until I was 35 years old, a human being can be quite flexible, even his older days. I'm not very old today, but I'm maybe more flexible than most of the youngsters."

Mati said the show in Hagerman will be his first in the United States.

"I'm quite nervous," he said, "but I'm not in very bad condition."

Weir said she organized the ethnic entertainment on her own. "I thought it was appropriate that when we have the exhibit, we try to combine it with ethnic performers," she explained. "It was quite a challenge."

thing with frets and strings."

He's come a long way since Hester Clark, his father, rigged up a cigar box with a ukelele neck and four strings attached for Roy to play in his elementary school band. These days, Clark is an ace player on 12-string guitar, acoustic guitar, banjo and fiddle, and he "gets by" on five other instruments.

Although Clark is known primarily for "Hee Haw" and live performances, he did score a hit record with a version of Charles Asnavor's "Yesterday When I Was Young."

That song is always a favorite in concert. Others include the Spanish tune "Malaguena," the whimsical "Thank God and Greyhound You're Gone" and the classic "Ghostriders in the Sky."

Although he played alone on stage for years, meeting each evening's accompanists for the first time when he hit town, Clark now tours with a backup band, Rodney Lay & The Wild West.

The group includes Lay on bass guitar, Shelby Eicher and Kenny Putnam on fiddles, keyboards player Chris Gage, Charlie Davis on steel guitar, drummer Rick Gomez and Vernon Sandusky on lead guitar. Banjo and mandolin player Jimmy Henley and James Henley, who plays rhythm guitar, are also in Clark's touring ranks.

"It's been fascinating, it's been fun and it's been an ordeal," Gates said.

From black shoe-shine boys to war veterans returning home, the exhibit has a human touch rather than a history book delivery, said Aileen Weir, regional chairman of the Idaho State Ethnic Heritage Committee.

"Ordinary people are three-fourths of this exhibit," she said. "They are the farmers and the children, the people who made Idaho a success."

A 1920 Irish women's hiking club, a Basque musical band and the McDonald family's grandmother in a covered wagon -1880 vintage-, are some of the captivating pictures in the collection.

"When people stand and look at it, they can get a warm feeling from it," Ouderkirk said. "The text has been done and redone. In hours spent, it's much more valuable than a $70,000 exhibit."

The ethnic photo exhibit was scheduled to begin its 1990 Idaho Centennial tour in April, but the project took more time and work than expected, so the April and May schedule was canceled. Hagerman, celebrating its Fossil Day on Saturday, was selected for the unveiling of the exhibit.

"We decided it would be nice to take that short jaunt down to Hagerman and let the public see it for the first time," Ouderkirk said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Bart Simpson, the goggle-eyed cartoon kid with a corrugated hairdo, is catching flak from educators who say his smart-alecky attitude on "The Simpsons" gives children the wrong message.

Bart, with his overbite and backtalk ("Don't have a cow, man!"), is fast becoming an icon of American pop culture, helped along by a multimillion-dollar merchandising blitz from Fox Broadcasting Co.

The scene-stealer on the runaway hit TV show also stars in Butterfinger candy bar commercials and there are plans for a starring role in a Nintendo video game. Mattel Inc. promises Bart dolls and action figures among more than 200 Simpsons products entering stores.

Bart's influence has reached Stanford University and UCLA, where he won votes in student elections. He was disqualified in both races on the technicality that he was not enrolled, prompting student protests.

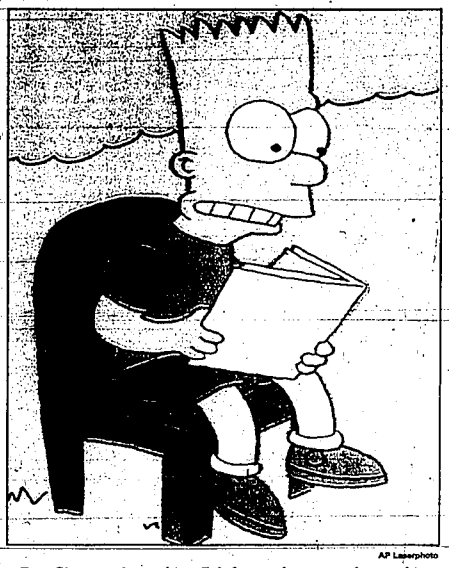

In a telegram from Fox to Stanford students, Bart told voters to be patient: "I must tell you I have set my sights on higher goals. Bart Simpson for U.S. president in '92, man!"

Bart is fast becoming the fictional youth American children identify with most. Not bad for a 10-year-old kid with only eight fingers, eh? But his attitude bothers some critical school officials.

Last month, Principal Bill Krumnow of Lutz Elementary School in Ballville Township, Ohio, banned Bart's "Underachiever: And Proud of It, Man," T-shirt.

"To be proud of being an incompetent is a contradiction of what we stand for," Krumnow said: "We strive for excellence and to instill good values in kids." The show, he said, "teaches the wrong thing to students."

The shirt also was banned at Cambridge Elementary School in Orange, Calif., and last week in Kentucky, Principal Lonnie Watts of Taylor Mill Elementary School declared the Bart shirt a dress-code violation.

"We feel like the Bart Simpson show does a lot of things that do not help student self-esteem, such as saying it's OK to be stupid," Watts said.

"Simpsons" creator Matt Groening and Fox officials prefer to let Bart defend himself with statements like: "I have no comment. My folks taught me to respect elementary school principals, even the ones who have nothing better to do than tell kids what to wear."

The show's co-executive producer Sam Simon said: "I don't think it's the job of elementary school principals to pick the role models for their kids."

The uproar caused J.C. Penney Co. Inc., which created Simpsons boutiques in its stores, to remove the offending "underachiever" shirt and another that reads: "I'm Bart Simpson. Who the hell are you?"

Even drug czar William J. Bennett took a swipe at Bart. On a May 16 tour of a Pittsburgh drug-treatment center, Bennett saw a poster of Bart and told recovering addicts they shouldn't follow Bart's lead as an underachiever. "You guys aren't watching 'The Simpsons,' are you? That's not going to help you any," said Bennett, director of the national drug policy office.

That wasn't lost on Fox. "We have great respect for Mr. Bennett's task and responsibility," said Fox spokesman Brad Turell. "But I am not aware of any one TV program that will help teen-agers kick the drug habit."

Simon said the heat was the inevitable result of the show's success.

"In a matter of a few months it went from being a cult favorite to a critical hit to popular acclaim," Simon said. "I knew that the next step — because it always is the next step — is somebody stepping in and saying it's dangerous."

Some authorities disagree with Bart's critics.

"I think the Simpson family is one of the few thoughtful cartoons on commercial broadcasting," said Peggy Charren, president of Action for Children's Television, a lobby and watchdog group based in Cambridge, Mass.

And Fox executives stress they're serious about Bart's image.

"We're sensitive to it, but you can't do your show for three (school) principals," said "Simpsons" co-producer James L. Brooks, a creator of "Taxi," "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and writer-director of "Terms of Endearment."

Brooks said he frequently discusses the show with parents, educators and child psychologists.

"I know from my own childhood that I was messed up most by the portrayal of perfect families," Brooks said. "When you couldn't live up to them then you started to think something was wrong with yours."

Book clubs rally to help move kids from television

By EILEEN OGINTZ
Chicago Tribune

CHICAGO — All parents want their kids to read, read and read some more. But there are so many new children's books on the market that parents often don't know which to choose. Some don't have much time to browse in children's bookstores or in libraries.

Joining a children's book club may be the answer, a growing number of publishers said. There are more than 20 of these clubs now, offering Dr. Seuss, Disney and Muppet Babies books, as well as ones for adolescent girls and boys. One club is aimed at black children and their families. Prices are below retail, the book clubs said.

"In the last five years the book club marketplace has proliferated. It's become very competitive," said Steve Fraser, who oversees the Field Publications children's book clubs, based in Connecticut.

Even the venerable Book of the Month Club — the nation's oldest and largest — is getting into the act, launching the Children's Book of the Month Club. It will offer books for babies and toddlers, those who are just ready to read, preschoolers and those the book club terms Ready-to-be-Readers and On-Their-Own-Readers.

"We're selling our selection process," said Susan Bishansky, children's book director for the Book of the Month Club. "You can trust us to pick the best books for kids."

That's no small job considering that almost 5,000 new children's books are published each year, up by one-third in the last five years, according to the Children's Book Council.

And more people than ever are buying them. At a time when too many children spend hours glued to a TV set or playing a video game, many parents are looking for a way to turn them on to books, starting at infancy.

As a result, children's publishing is now a billion-dollar-a-year industry, according to the Book Industry Study Group, which chronicles industry trends, and the outlook remains strong for the 1990s.

"It's the hottest part of the publishing industry. . . . It's taking people in adult publishing companies by surprise," said John Keller, publisher of children's books for Little, Brown and Co.

Keller and others said the hot market is one more example of how Baby Boomers' values and desires can change an entire industry. The Boomers have the money to provide the best for their babies, and that includes lots of books.

"They want a library at home," Keller said, adding that some of these parents wouldn't blink at spending $50 on children's books on a Saturday afternoon.

These parents, who likely didn't have nearly as many books when they were children, also may wish to supplement their own children's education.

'Captain Planet' presses on, but without star's backing

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Cruise, who last month urged Earth Day celebrants in Washington to help save the planet, has dropped out as television's Capt. Planet. A star-name setback, but noooo problem.

"Capt. Planet and the Planeteers," Ted Turner's cartoon eco-series, is pressing on, says Barbara V. Pyle, the executive in charge of the 26-episode, $7.8 million project to alert kids to dangers to the environment.

Cruise was to be the voice of Capt. Planet, a green-haired eco-hero who can be summoned by five youngsters of different races and nations to fight various villains ruining the Earth.

Alas, the star's busy film schedule "just does not permit him to be involved in a series production," says Pyle. "He was putting us too far behind, and so we lovingly and sadly parted ways."

But production continues, as does a search for the star's replacement.

Previously announced stars such as Sting, Martin Sheen and Meg Ryan still remain as the voices of such eco-villains as Zarm, Sly Sludge and Dr. Blight.

And Whoopi Goldberg, a show spokeswoman says, still is on as the voice of a central character, Gaia, the Mother Earth who gives the kids on the show magic rings containing the powers of earth, wind, fire, water and heart.

The shows are "going to start popping off the cookie sheet in July," says Pyle, a breezy Oklahoman and former free-lance photographer who joined Turner's Atlanta-based cable empire when it was just a small one back in 1980.

The half-hour series, whose basic idea was conceived by Turner and developed by Pyle and seven others, will premiere, with commercials, on two fronts — on local stations and Turner's TBS SuperStation.

Turner officials say the show has been sold to more than 100 stations for broadcast during kid-cartoon hours on Saturday mornings. TBS, serving more than 50 million homes by cable, will air it Sunday mornings.

He hired her, she says, upon learning that she shared his feelings on environmental issues, even though she knew nothing about TV. Thanks to him, she now may now be the only environmental executive at a television network.

'Bird on a Wire' doesn't give stars time to work on chemistry

By PETER RAINER
Los Angeles Times

HOLLYWOOD — John Badham's "Bird on a Wire" is both frenetic and witless — a bad combination. It's the sort of action-comedy vehicle that stands a chance of succeeding only if the star chemistry is strong enough to compensate for all the uninspired calisthenic derring-do.

Mel Gibson and Goldie Hawn can't cultivate their chemistry because their characters are too busy dodging bullets and scampering away from the bad guys. They're moving-target gangsters in a techno-pop shooting gallery.

Gibson plays Rick Jarmin, a former counter-culture roustabout who, as a result of testifying against a crooked fed (David Carradine) 15 years ago, is still being shuttled around the country in the Federal Witness Relocation Program. When his ex-sweetheart Marianne (Hawn), who believed him dead, accidentally encounters Rick working in a Detroit gas station, she's furious at him.

In other words, she still loves him.

AP Laserphoto

Mel Gibson and Goldie Hawn spend too much time on the run in the new action-comedy

Review

Released from prison, the corrupt fed reteams with his partner (Bill Duke) and goes gunning for Rick. Marianne ends up the willing hostage of her old boyfriend. She's a big-time corporate lawyer now, which, given the film's woozy spirit-of-the-'60s bias, means it's only a matter of time before she drops out and goes native; we're supposed to be charmed by her reluctant re-entry into Rick's time-warp world of hippie flamboyance and nose-thumbing at authority.

The time warp is a bit too conveniently warped. Even though we're regaled with '60s music, Rick's initial romance with Marianne was, by my calculations, circa 1975 — not exactly the height of hippiedom. But the time delay allows for a somewhat less superannuated pair of lovebirds.

Marianne may be a successful professional woman but, in contrast to her "radical" past, she's castigated as a grasping, acquisitive screecher — a furrocoat. When, on the run with Rick, she bemoans the loss of her gold card and her daily massage, we're essentially being treated to Pvt. Benjamin in lawyer drag. Her princessy rantings have a recycled sameness.

By comparison, Rick gets off easy. His drug bust, which we see in a shimmer of flashbacks, is recalled as a romp. But because it involved flying a drug-laden plane across the border, and the shooting of Rick's partner, it's tough to connect these gruesome flashbacks with Rick's current footloose affability.

Has a male star ever received this much on-camera ogling at the expense of his female co-star? Hawn flounces around in a series of unflattering poses while Gibson — literally — butts into half of his scenes. There's a funny joke around every corner. In one car-chase scene, Rick spends the entire time scrunched beneath the glove compartment with his bottom pointing skyward. In another, we get to watch as Rick has the buckshot lovingly removed from his rear by an amorous veterinarian (Joan Severance).

Gibson tries to trick all this adulation into a comic style, and he has a pretty good time of it. He can be funny on the run, as he also demonstrated in the early parts of "Lethal Weapon 2," before he was required to endure the inevitable pummelings and stabbings and bombings. But he's essentially window-dressing here, just as Hawn is essentially a sound-effects machine (She's all whine and purr).

Badham takes a ham-fisted approach. When one of the bad guys is thrown into a pool of piranhas at a zoo, we get a close-up of his face being gnawed. The violence in this movie, of which this snippet is typical, doesn't have a comic kick to it. It's just thrown in to juice the junk. Does this explain why the people in this film are such androids? If they were actual humans, we might be forced to wince at their pain. As it is, we just wince at the movie.

The following are reviews of movies now showing in the Magic Valley. Ratings are by the Motion Picture Association of America and the Los Angeles Times. Opinions are by Los Angeles Times reviewers.

CADILLAC MAN (R). Noisy, overbright and empty, "Cadillac Man" wastes the considerable talents of all aboard but most especially Robin Williams, trying wildly to fast-talk cuckolded husband Tim Robbins out of shooting all his hostages at a Queens car dealership.

MIAMI BLUES (R). George Armitage's violent, dippy joyride, derived from Charles Willeford's smart, nasty 1984 crime novel, stars Alec Baldwin as a jailbird posing as a lawman in sun-drenched modern Miami. Fred Ward plays the cop whose credentials (and dentures) Baldwin pilfers. It's made with great finesse, but the results are slightly queasy; it might have been made by a sociopathic Chuck Jones. Also stars Jennifer Jason Leigh in a touching performance as a sweet, dim hooker.

PRETTY WOMAN (R). Updating "Pygmalion" and sprinkling it with Cinderella dust may seem like a perfectly workable idea until you get into the nuts and bolts of "Pretty Woman." Here, Richard Gere's bored cipher of a corporate raider transforms Julia Roberts' happy Hollywood pastiche, and it turns into the usual slicked-up revenge saga — laced with lame wisecracks, thin topical gags and sub-Hong Kong action.

Capsule reviews

Boulevard hooker into a lydie he can pass off at a polo match in less than a week. This is a movie that barely has a moment to call its own and the ones it has are gamy, materialistic and possibly life-threatening. Some fairy tale for the '90s.

Q&A (R). Nick Nolte tops even his own past performances with this electrifying portrayal of a veteran New York cop-bigot in Sidney Lumet's enormously satisfying look at today's N.Y.P.D., a blisteringly obscene unmelted melting pot, where racial epithets flourish like cockroaches and racial ties bind and blind equally. Also to be found are a dozen or so of the year's finest character performances.

TEENAGE MUTANT NINJA TURTLES (PG). Try the comic book instead. Or even the cereal. This adaptation of Kevin Eastman and Peter Laird's chop-socky comic spoof, in which mutated, masked-hero turtles and their rat mentor wreak havoc on New York's villains, is a triumph of marketing, name recognition and product tie-ins. Also, Jim Henson's Creature Shop has come up with some terrific puppets. But director Steve Barron's movie, partially derived from Eastman-Laird's original story, lacks real personality. It's written like a celebrity roast, filmed like a horror

SYDNEY OMARR

ASTROLOGICAL FORECASTS

IF MAY 25 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You did right thing earlier in month when you got rid of obligation you should not have carried in first place. During June opportunity exists for fresh start, romance, greater degree of independence. Almost as if by magic financial picture grows brighter.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You might be saying, "I feel as if I've been released from bondage!" Weekend promises freedom, initiative, adventure and romance. Tonight you receive written message which elevates morale.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Family member relates good news concerning personal possessions, basic values, finances. What had been lost can now be recovered. Focus on domestic adjustment, diplomacy, receipt of gift.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Those who attempt to discourage you are not familiar with current situation. Cycle continues high, take initiative, perfect techniques. Someone behind scenes serves as your private cheering section.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Lunar position highlights groups, clubs, institutions. You'll get good news in connection with one temporarily confined to home or hospital. Bills will be paid in almost miraculous fashion.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Intervention of friend helps "save" project. Emphasis on distance, language, universal appeal. Many of your fondest desires could be fulfilled shortly. Aries, Libra persons play major roles.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): New kid on the block befriends you. Suddenly you are considered for "important" position. Emphasis also on romance, vigor, fresh, start. Gemini native says, "You deserve better and you'll get it!".

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Decision will be reached tonight in connection with direction, motive, ultimate goal. Cancer, Aquarius natives will figure prominently. Scenario highlights information, education, communication.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Dig deep for information, check financial statements and accounting procedures. Tonight you'll shine at social affair. Display versatility, ability to laugh at your own foibles. Imprint style.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Individual who thought you could not make it will now eat those words. Opportunity exists to remodel, renovate, rebuild on solid structure. Marital status is once again part of scenario.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Emphasis on information gleaned from special reading material. Focus also on pets, dependents, health, employment. You'll be working with your hands. Flirtation could become serious.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Family member wants you close. Know it prior to making weekend plans. Emphasis on food, music, entertainment, displays of affection. Lunar accent on creativity, children, personal magnetism.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): This can be a kind of "wonderland" weekend. Focus on illusion, amusement, reunion with loved one. Tonight dilemma will be resolved in relatively simple manner. Virgo will play paramount role.

What's what

Liver of a porcupine

Am told there are still people in northern New England who regard porcupine liver as a fine-flavored delicacy.

Why you like certain people well enough to call them friends is most mysterious, isn't it? And most personal. Lord Byron and Sir Walter Scott disagreed on politics, art and philosophy. Both had game legs. Both limped. They became good friends.

Neither can I.

PLANTS

Q. Is it really unhealthy to sleep in a room with a lot of plants in it?

A. On the contrary. In breathing, people give off carbon dioxide. Plants absorb that, and give off oxygen. Plants also give off a little carbon dioxide, but nowhere nearly as much as people do.

Q. What's the fuzz on a tennis ball good for?

A. Racket control.

NBC Thursday-night comedy begins with Seinfeld's wry view of New York

By FRANK LOVCE

In radio's "Prairie Home Companion," Garrison Keillor has his wry observations on Lake Wobegone. In NBC's new Thursday-night comedy, "Seinfeld," scheduled at press time to air May 31, stand-up comic Jerry Seinfeld has his wry observations on New York City.

"Well — yeah," Seinfeld sort of agrees. He's sitting at home in Manhattan's Upper West Side, where great old bookstores, art-movie theaters and restaurants vie for the attention of neighborhood yuppies. "This is where I've lived since 1976, and I grew up around here, so it's what I know. But it's like (Keillor) — certain things are universal. My life," he says, "is fairly normal, but I find the comedy in it."

Indeed. Take the nature of male friendships. "The great thing about guys," the Brooklyn-born Seinfeld observes in one episode, "is that we can become friends based on almost nothing: Two guys will become friends just 'cause they're two guys!" As for male-female friendships, "If you've had a relationship with someone and try to become friends afterward, it's difficult, because you know each other so well. You know all each other's tricks. It's like two magicians trying to entertain each other. ..."

On "Seinfeld," he essentially plays himself — a comedian named Jerry Seinfeld who lives in New York City. "The (show's) set isn't a duplicate of my apartment," he says, "but I decorated it the way I decorate my apartment."

No, insists Seinfeld. "Mine is about my observations on life and being single and like that. His show is about making fun of the sitcom (format). I never saw it," he quickly amends. "I just saw bits and pieces."

Still, Seinfeld, like Shandling, has a best friend on the show portrayed by an actor not playing himself — Tony Award-winner Jason Alexander ("Jerome Robbins' Broadway"). He also has a platonic girlfriend (Julia Louis-Dreyfus), like Shandling does on his show. But that's the extent of it. "Seinfeld" is shot on film, not videotape; no one breaks the "fourth wall"; and the show is funny and knowing in a much less broad way.

It occasionally segues into stand-up-comic sequences that comment on what's just gone on in the story. Seinfeld-the-character seems like real-life-Seinfeld 10 years ago, when he made a decent living in such New York clubs as The Comic Strip and Catch a Rising Star.

"For four years, every night, those were my homes," he says. By the mid-'80s comedy boom, Seinfeld was trying to break into television in Los Angeles and becoming well-known on the comedy-club circuit. That, ironically, is the subject of his series.

ON THE COVER: Jerry Seinfeld and Julia Louis-Dreyfus star in "Seinfeld." The new limited-run Thursday-night NBC series blends elements of situation and stand-up comedy.

Q: Is it a fact that ever since she posed nude with another woman in a photo session some years ago, former Miss America Vanessa Williams hasn't spoken to her parents? — R.D.

A: Vanessa has long since outlived the negative publicity surrounding those super-spicy photos taken when she was a younger and less thoughtful woman. Since then, she's carved out quite a career as a singer, married her manager and started a family. And, Vanessa is on good terms with her parents. My L.A. spy saw her at a record industry party in Hollywood recently, and her escorts were Helen and Milton Williams — better known to Vanessa as Mom and Dad.

A: Jack pulls down upwards of $7 million per flick, not counting a percentage of the grosses. But — he claims — he's choosy about his parts. In late April, he finally wound

I suspect Nicholson, who directed "Jakes" himself, wasn't paid as much as he was for playing the Joker in "Batman." Nicholson tells me he won't work in the "Batman" sequel just for the tremendous money he receives — although, he confesses, "It's tempting."

Q: I heard that an old favorite of mine, Glenn Ford, died some time ago. How old was he when he passed away? — R.J.

A: Ford is alive and well and as we speak touring Europe with the young lady who is slated to become the actor's fourth wife. Ford, now 74, is engaged to 25-year-old Karen Johnson, a Washington State beauty contest winner. He's also slated to start shooting a thriller called "Black Sky" in Paris with French actor Alain Delon.

Q: What's this about more legal trouble for Zsa Zsa Gabor? — R.M.

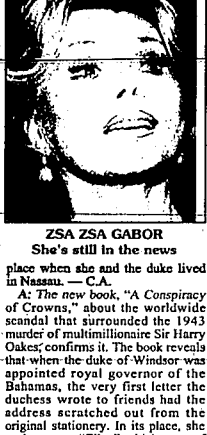

A: As if Zsa Zsa didn't have her hands full. In addition to her liberal interpretation of her probationary responsibilities, Gabor is facing a $5 million defamation suit. It was filed by none other than German-born, former screen sexpot Elke Sommer. She claims Zsa Zsa made some super nasty remarks about her in a German-language magazine last February. What did Zsa Zsa allegedly say? I'm legally constrained from telling you, but one thing is sure — it was not at all flattering to Fraulein Sommer.

A: Pryor, 50, recently remarried his fifth wife, Flynn. They have two children. And Pryor is countering all those rumors about bad health — he recently suffered a heart attack in Australia — with the statement that he wouldn't have gotten married again if he didn't feel so good. Can wedded bliss cure a heart condition?

Q: Did the Duchess of Windsor detest the beautiful Bahamas? A woman we met there who knew her told us she absolutely loathed the place when she and the duke lived in Nassau. — C.A.

A: The new book, "A Conspiracy of Crowns," about the worldwide scandal that surrounded the 1943 murder of multimillionaire Sir Harry Oakes, confirms it. The book reveals that when the duke of Windsor was appointed royal governor of the Bahamas, the very first letter the duchess wrote to friends had the address scratched out from the original stationery. In its place, she tartly wrote, "Elba," which was, of course, the Mediterranean island to which Napoleon was banished. "A Conspiracy of Crowns" is written by Alfred de Marigny, the husband of the murdered man's daughter Nancy. De Marigny was accused of the crime and then acquitted in a sensational trial.

BURT REYNOLDS
Burt's no sexist

Q: Isn't it true that ever since their marriage, Burt Reynolds has ordered Loni Anderson to stop working? Is he that much of a sexist? — N.I.

A: Burt and Loni have been working together for the last three years on their syndicated TV game show, "Win, Lose or Draw." The show's final segment was taped recently, and Loni assures me she's off to other professional pastures. She's starring in a TV movie version of the splashy 1954 romance flick set in Rome, "Three Coins in the Fountain," playing a sexy magazine editor. And, she may even turn up as that supersexy secretary in a new version of the hit "WKRP" TV show. As for supposed injunctions from Burt about not working, Loni assures me that hasn't happened.

A: According to my Hollywood spy, Daryl is gradually getting tougher in her professional dealings, and more of a star, with a capital "S." Some promotional people who worked with her in conjunction with "Crazy People," her new movie comedy co-starring Dudley Moore, report she was extremely picky about interviews. Before okaying any magazine pieces, Daryl now tends to demand up-front photo approval. One disenchanted press agent calls her "Hardhearted Hannah."

Q: What's this about the late Clark Gable's actor-son imitating his famous father by playing around with a number of young starlets? — M.O.

A: All I can tell you is that John Clark Gable, the late actor's son, is having a hard time lately. First, his acting career is not exactly setting bonfires in Hollywood. His first starring film, "Bad Jim," never made it to the theaters. Instead it went straight to video cassettes, not an indication of great public

Daytime Emmy show is coming soon

BY JOHN N. GOUDAS

It's that time of the year again — the announcement of the Daytime Emmy Awards nominations has been made. Many fingernails will be bitten to the quick before June 28 when the coveted statuettes are handed out during a live telecast on ABC.

So without further ado, let's get down to the most important question — was Susan Lucci nominated for her role as Erica Kane in "All My Children"? The answer is yes and this marks the 11th time in a row for the actress who has yet to win. Each year, insiders predict Susan Lucci will finally get her Emmy but so far, the popular actress has gone home empty-handed. In all fairness, Susan has to feel somewhat disappointed, to say the least, but she always smiles for the cameras and takes her defeat with the graciousness of a Queen.

CBS, which may be trailing in the nighttime series sweepstakes, led the Daytime nominations with a whopping total of 74. "Guiding Light" and "The Young and the Restless" each earned 14 nominations, followed by 13 for ABC's "All My Children." "The Young and the Restless" has had some good storylines this past season and really deserves to win Best Soap Opera, but the veteran CBS soap, "Guiding Light" may prove to be a dark horse. The other two nominees for Best Drama Series are ABC's "All My Children" and NBC's "Santa Barbara."

BEST LEAD ACTRESS:

Susan Lucci — as Erica Kane in "All My Children."

Elizabeth Hubbard — as Lucinda Walsh Dixon in "As the World Turns."

Jeanne Cooper — as Katherine Chancellor Sterling in "The Young and the Restless."

BEST LEAD ACTOR:

Julia Barr — as Brooke English in "All My Children."

Lynn Herring — as Lucy Coe in "General Hospital."

BEST SUPPORTING ACTOR:

Kin Shriner — as Scott Baldwin in "General Hospital."

demand. Then Gable informed me that he and wife Stacy (they have two children) are divorcing.

Q: Any idea what caused the breakup of Sly Stallone's ex, Brigitte Nielsen, and her new love, the football player Mark Gastineau? Didn't they have a baby? — T.S.

A: To hear Brigitte tell it, Mark was too possessive and jealous. What he really wanted, she says, was a house frau who would either be in the kitchen or taking care of their baby Marcus, born last December. Brigitte is ambitious and feels the two years she spent tucked away with Gastineau in Arizona while he trained for his new career as a boxer stalled her own career.

Q: How come Vanessa Redgrave and her sister Lynn are feuding? Are they jealous of each other or is it over Vanessa's pro-Arab politics? — T.F.

A: They aren't feuding and never have been. That news may be a little early, publicity for their next project. Lynn will be flying over to London later this year to co-star with Vanessa for the first time in a remake of "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?" You remember that those two mortal enemies, Bette Davis and Joan Crawford, played together in the original.

Q: Isn't it true that Eddie Murphy just sustained a career-threatening injury? What's it all about? — P.G.

A: Eddie was injured on the set of his latest big outing, "Another 48 Hours," but it was relatively minor. He cut his right hand: The scene called for Murphy to swap gunfire with a group of bad guys in a smoky nightclub. Caught in the cross fire was a caged, semi-nude dancer. To get off a "shot," Murphy jumped up from the floor, hitting his hand. He didn't even bother to stop for first aid but continued for several more takes of the action scene. "I gave my blood for Paramount," quipped Murphy, referring to the studio that's making the film.

Q: How come after all of these years David Bowie's wife decided to go on TV and claim that her husband and Mick Jagger were lovers? Seems to me if she wanted that kind of press she could have been badmouthing Bowie years ago. — D.D.

A: The divorce agreement Angie signed 10 years ago effectively muzzled her until April 1, when she received her last payment from Bowie. Insiders say she asked to go on Joan Rivers talk show where she made the allegations for publicity since she wants to try to make it as a singer again. A spokesman for Bowie said, "David has no comment on anything his wife has to say. He avoids her at all costs."

A: Kirk remains the best-looking 73-year-old — you're likely to encounter soon. Fact is, however, that good leading parts for septuagenarians are few and far between. Kirk has written his autobiography and a novel, "Dance with the Devil." He's now working on his third book, a second novel, because he likes to write. Kirk does have a role in an upcoming circus movie. The advantage is that it's being produced by his son, actor-producer Michael Douglas.

BEST MALE JUVENILE:

CHANNEL CHATTER

Jon Hensley, who earned an Emmy nomination when he played Holden Snyder in "As the World Turns," left the soap awhile ago to seek his fame and fortune in prime time. After some guest shots on series, Jon must have missed the fan adoration and the opportunity to do more than one scene in an hour show because he is set to return to "As the World Turns" this summer. He will once again be playing Holden Snyder and you can be sure that he will target his amorous attentions on his one time love, Lily Walsh (played by Heather Rattray).

PLOT PORTENTS

Julia tells Matt to stay away from Gab and Andy is suspicious of Dan in "One Life to Live." Brenda has visions of Michael and Gab gets Cord to invite her to a Buchanan family dinner which makes Tina furious.

Dane informs Clay that he knows the new so-called miracle product was stolen from Tempest and is a dangerous formula which had been rejected in "Loving." April confronts Clay about having used her to steal the product. When Rick and Denny break into Dane's house, there's a fight and Rick thinks he may have killed Dane.

Caroline wonders how she can tell Ridge about the medical news in "The Bold and the Beautiful." Stephanie holds all the cards and won't accept Brooke as Eric's wife. Thorne concentrates his attentions on Macy.

Will Sheila jump with the baby off an Aussie bridge on "Days of Our Lives"? Jack's plans to bring Emilio and Melissa back together seems to be working. Unable to tell Roman the truth, Bo must remain his adversary on board ship. Thwarted Maggie suspects Neil knows about her missing files.

The Charles-Daniel cliffhanger continues on "Generations." Sam puts off Paris, wanting to stay with wounded Kyle. After saving her life, Adam thrives on Maya's loving attention. Doreen and Martin grow closer than they have ever been after Martin admits he's been wrong, but Daniel is still on Doreen's mind.

Robert tells the press the alien story is fiction on "General Hospital." Robin returns the crystal to Windemere so Casey can return to Lumina. Sean's recovery from surgery is debatable and the cops question Decker. Frisco headlines at the opening of Kate's new club.

LOS ANGELES (AP)–Despite copycat versions popping up on local stations across the country, "America's Funniest Home Videos" was again the most watched show on television.

The ratings released Tuesday by the A.C. Nielsen Co. ought to make ABC very happy. On Monday, as part of its preview of the upcoming fall season, the network announced it had finally come up with a companion for its top-rated show – "America's Funniest ... Part II." The shows will run back-to-back, proving that imitation is the sincerest form of flattering sponsors.

During the Sunday night show, $100,000 was awarded to the best video submitted during the season. The grand prize went to a clip of a man who snagged and lost his pants on a fence as he tried to catch a baseball.

As May sweeps come to a close, NBC recaptured first place from surprise CBS, which landed the No. 1 spot for the first time in nearly two years for the week ended May 13.

For the week ended May 20, the eye was back in its usual last place with an 11.2 average. ABC was second with 11.5 and NBC led the pack with 11.7.

Tracy Ullman's ready to move on

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tracey Ullman, the versatile comedian who helped launch Fox Broadcasting Co. and won the fledgling network its first Emmy, has announced she is quitting four years into a five-year contract.

"I have decided not to go on with 'The Tracey Ullman Show' after four seasons in which I was constantly challenged and happily tortured by a unique group of people," Miss Ullman said in a statement released by Fox. "I thank Fox for letting somebody no one ever heard of do a show on a network that didn't exist."

Miss Ullman's departure came two days after her friend and executive producer James L. Brooks announced he was leaving Fox to sign a deal with Columbia Pictures Television.

"We are grateful to every one of the extraordinary group who so painstakingly built each segment of the 81 episodes of 'The Tracey Ullman Show,'" Fox Chairman Barry Diller said in a prepared statement.

Miss Ullman leaves Fox four years into a five-year contract. "I think it was probably mutually agreed upon," said Fox spokeswoman Antonia Coffman. Reruns of "The Tracey Ullman Show" will be shown exclusively on the Lifetime cable channel beginning in September, she said.

'NewsHour' is compared to 'Nightline'

NEW YORK (AP) — Public television's "The MacNeil-Lehrer NewsHour" features more whites and males and is more government-oriented and conservative than ABC's "Nightline," says a group that studied both shows.

The assertion was made by a liberal media watchdog group, Fairness & Accuracy in Reporting, in a study released Sunday. FAIR president Jeff Cohen said that the PBS show has a "narrow, pro-establishment guest list" that "mocks the original mandate of public television" to provide diversity.

"NewsHour" executive producer Les Crystal said the news program agrees that diversity is important "and we clearly feel we can and should do better in that regard."

But he disputed what he called FAIR's contention that the show doesn't criticize the government much and also that it asks one-sided questions.

"That's just not true," he said. "We look for differing points of view and have them on almost all the time."

The FAIR study of "NewsHour" broadcasts from Feb. 6 to Aug. 4, 1989, was conducted by Boston College sociologists William Hoynes and David Croteau, who made a study critical of "Nightline" last year.

The "Nightline"' report, examining 40 months of the ABC program from 1985 to 1988, found that 89 percent of its guests were men, 92 percent were white, and that conservative leaders were the show's most frequent guests.

FAIR's new study, entitled "All the Usual Suspects: MacNeil-Lehrer and Nightline," also compared ABC's program with "NewsHour" during the same six-month period the latter was studied.

Laura will continue to die on, but Elvis will be seen no more

NEW YORK (AP) — "Twin Peaks" will be back next fall along with "China Beach" but there will be no more "Elvis" sightings, ABC said Monday.

The new schedule, unveiled shortly before the scheduled release of NBC's fall roster, contains six new series, including Steven Bocho's hourlong "Cop Rock," a mix of cops and musical production numbers.

All had low ratings. But so did "Twin Peaks," directed by David Lynch of "Blue Velvet" fame and one of this season's most written about new series. A dark saga of sex, murder and jelly doughnuts, it had top ratings of 21.7 for its April 8 premiere, but has steadily lost viewers, despite even a favorable New York Times editorial.

However, the "Twin Peaks" mystery, which revolves around the murder of a key character, a high school beauty named Laura Palmer, has touched off sales of T-shirts marked "I Killed Laura Palmer" in California, an ABC spokesman said. ABC spokesman Tom Mackin said the network expects the ratings will improve next season when the series follows the renewed "China Beach" in the latter's new time slot on Saturday nights.

Other ABC renewals include the high-rated "Roseanne," and "thirtysomething," "Life Goes On," and ABC News' "PrimeTime Live" and "20-20" series.Three of the five other new series on ABC's roster are sitcoms — "Baby Talk," based on the hit movie "Look Who's Talking"; "Going Places," about four young adults in Los Angeles working on their first TV show — a "candid videos" series; and "Married People," about three generations of married couples sharing the same brownstone in New York.

Capitalizing on its top-rated "America's Funniest Home Videos," ABC also will have "America's Funniest ... Part II."
